Hammaraskjold Now Pondering Ominous Signs

Preventing Renewal Of Old Egypt-Israel Feud Is Chief Goal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Faced by ominous signs of new trouble in the Middle East, Dag Hammarskjold today began work on long-range measures aimed at preventing a recurrence of Israeli-Egyptian conflict.

The problem was left in the secretary general's hands Friday night when the U.N. General Assembly adjourned its regular 11th session after hearing an official report that Israel had completed its withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and Sharm El Sheikh.

The assembly adjourned subject to the call of its president. Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge pledged the full support of the Eisenhower administration for the secretary general's peace efforts.

One of the most pressing problems appeared to be that of trying to get agreement for U. N. forces to be stationed on both sides of the 1949 Palestine armistice line to prevent a renewal of raids across the border from Egypt and Israel.

Many delegations, including the United States, feel that such an arrangement is necessary to stabilize the border area.

ALTHOUGH Israel has expressed firm opposition, Hammarskjold is expected to urge Premier David Ben-Gurion to reconsider.

The United States was represented as feeling that the days of the U. N. force may be numbered if it is stationed only on one side of the demarcation line.

Some countries already are talking about pulling their troop contingents out of the U. N. Emergency Force (UNEF). If Egypt asks the U. N. to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and the Sharm El Sheikh coastal area on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Another problem facing Hammarskjold is working out an agreement for the administration of the Gaza Strip which will replace the "initial" arrangement in Gaza must have the consent of Egypt.

Under the present setup, the UNEF and the U. N. agency for Arab refugees are working together in a temporary administration in the area. The population of the narrow coastal strip consists of 70,000 Palestinian Arab refugees and 100,000 nonrefugees.

Dispatches from Gaza reported demonstrators were demanding the return of Egyptian control to the Gaza Strip.

U. N. diplomats also indicated some concern over dispatches from Cairo quoting Egyptian officials as saying Israeli shipping would be barred from the Suez Canal when it resumes.

Any ban on Israeli shipping could be expected to aggravate the relations between the two countries and complicate Hammarskjold's task.

Cop Makes a Pass At Woman (a Cop)

CHICAGO (AP)—A probationary policeman was discharged Friday after he was arrested in a Loo theater by a city policewoman who said he had molested her.

Gaston Cook, 35, who joined the force last October, was ordered fired by Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor after Policewoman Jean Donnelly said Cook made passes at her in the darkened Roosevelt Theater. She has been assigned to the theater at the request of the management.

Ohioan Urging No U. S. Aid to Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Arch D. Schultz, director of research for the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, said Friday the federal government should keep out of state education.

He testified before a House education subcommittee studying various proposals to make federal grants to the states for help in building classrooms.

He quoted an estimate of the Ohio Department of Taxation that the cost of the administration's proposals to Ohio taxpayers would be $216,368,000. In return, he said, Ohio would receive $45,284,000.

3,283 Acres Signed For Soil Bank Here

When the deadline for signing up for the corn acreage reserve was reached at 5 p. m. Friday, 3,283.7 acres on 218 farms in Fayette County had been put in the Soil Bank.

For taking this land out of production, the farmer will receive $186,071.40. That left unclaimed $119,325.60 of the $305,407 allocated to Fayette County for benefit payments by the federal government.

The figures were given by Ms. Fred Shoop, office manager of the Fayette County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Acrid Fumes Billow from Chemical Fire

SOUTH POINT (AP)—Fire ignited in 45,000 tons of fertilizer at the Allied Chemical & Dye Corp. plant early today generated clouds of acrid fumes that endangered a wide area.

Nearby communities in the Ohio Valley were alerted, and in Huntington the National Guard was summoned for emergency duty.

Firemen from nearby cities joined the plant's firefighting unit in combatting the blaze.

The fire, in a storehouse, 100 yards wide, 600 yards long and 100 feet high, was still smoldering some eight and a half hours after it was discovered.

Mobile cranes were moved near the structure and hoses mounted on the booms to pour water into the fire area.

R. E. Smith, a public relations official at the plant, said the cause of the blaze and extent of the loss have not been determined.

Smith added that "the product is mixed fertilizer not classified as an explosive," but he warned that "products of the combustion are toxic."

Smith said long exposure to the vapors, which hover near the ground, can cause irritation of the nose and throat.

South Point is a community of 800 at the southernmost tip of Ohio on the Ohio River.

Farmers Warned On Wheat Violation

TOLEDO (AP)—Federal Judge Frank L. Kloebe warned Friday he would "begin handing out stiff sentences" to farmers who violate the law establishing wheat quotas. Before him on a contempt charge were Walter Carpenter and his son James, both of Defiance, and George Miller of Fayette.

Assistant District Attorney Clarence M. Condon said the three ignored orders to file wheat reports for the 1954 growing year last September, filing them only last Friday when today's hearing became imminent. Condon said all three refused to permit federal agents to visit their farms.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Delbert Jones has lost his badge—the second time this year.

News in Brief Quakes Shake Greece Anew

ATHENS (AP)—New earth shocks caused further damage today in central Greece where two quakes already have almost destroyed 45 villages and communities and damaged some 1,000 buildings.

The disaster has caused one known death and injured between 40 and 50 persons.

Unofficial estimates said more than 20,000 persons were left homeless.

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Iraq Petroleum Co. announced that work on repairing its damaged pipelines through Syria started today.

HISANOYAMA, Japan (AP)—High tides swept over a 60-foot embankment Friday and inundated 55 houses. There were no casualties.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru's Congress party today won its third state legislative majority in India's second general election.

Latest returns gave the Congress party 149 seats so far in the 288-seat Madhya Pradesh state legislature. The combined opposition had 40 seats with the balance still unaccounted for.

Congress had already won majorities in Andhra and Assam states.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Four hundred policemen broke up a riot outside a beer hall Friday night after Africans stoned and damaged 30 to 40 automobiles. No one was hurt seriously.

The trouble began when 200 Africans became impatient after being told to queue up for a refund after complaining of the quality of the beer.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—A strong earthquake shook Managua Friday night. No casualties or property damage were reported.

TOKYO (AP)—Tokyo's population as of Feb. 1 was 8,322,530, an increase of 238,980 over the same last year, a city official reported.

LONDON (AP)—Pravda today accused the U.S. Information Agency of helping to start the Hungarian revolt.

It described the U. S. organization as a "factory manufacturing slander and diversion" with the aim of weakening Communist states. The Pravda article was broadcast by Moscow radio.

Circleville Plans Poll on Fast Time

CIRCLEVILLE (AP)—The Circleville Chamber of Commerce will poll local merchants to determine if the city will go on Daylight Saving Time.

A spokesman for the chamber said the city's decision would be contingent on Columbus' approval of fast time. Columbus voters will decide in the May 8 primary whether to place the Ohio capital on fast time.

Last Major Suez Obstacle Removed

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt has started preliminary work toward removal of the last major obstructions in the Suez Canal, but U. N. salvage authorities still awaited a go-ahead for the final clearance.

Egyptian engineers began operations on the 841-ton tug Edgar Bonnet, sunk midway in the 103-mile waterway near Ismailia during the British-French and Israeli invasion last fall. They said they had to remove explosives from the vessel first.

When the ships are removed, vessels up to 10,000 tons will be able to sail the entire length of the canal. But Egyptian officials have

Convict Asks More Time to Finish Study

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A bogus Army surgeon who wanted to stay in prison long enough to finish a correspondence course in engineering is going to get to.

Frank Purness, 35-year-old Chicago truck driver now in the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute Ind., pleaded guilty in federal court Friday to impersonating a federal officer and transporting stolen goods.

When Judge William E. Stickler sentenced him to six more months in prison Purness said:

"You'd think I'm crazy, sir, but I'd like to stay there another year so I can finish a correspondence course in industrial engineering. I couldn't afford to complete it if I were on the outside."

The judge sentenced Purness to 11 years, with eight suspended.

Federal officials said Purness left Chicago in his laundry truck in 1955 and took a 10,000-mile trip marked by a long series of worthless checks, a bigamous marriage and an amazing impersonation of an Army surgeon.

Dynamite-Laden Canadian Shot Down by Cop in Bank

MONTREAL (AP)—A weirdly masked young bomber, laden with enough dynamite to wreck a city block, was shot down by police Friday as he threatened to blow up a bank building.

"You may have me now," the wounded bandit told police, "but at 4:45 p.m. three places in the city are going to be blown to kingdom come."

There were no explosions at that hour but a key found on the youth led police to a timebomb overdue to go off at Montreal's Central Station.

Fearful that other bombs might have been planted in public buildings in the pattern of New York's "Mad Bomber" scare, police searched Windsor Railroad Station and City Bus Terminal but found nothing.

The youth, identified as Andre Deblols, 21, was shot through the neck and wounded seriously after he had held a gun on employees and patrons of a Toronto-Dominion Bank branch for 20 minutes.

made it clear this does not apply to Israeli shipping, which was barred even before the October-November fighting. Egypt maintains it is still technically at war with Israel, despite the 1949 Palestine armistice.

Meanwhile, eight small vessels, all under 500 tons, transited the canal Friday. This was the first large movement of shipping since the waterway was blocked more than four months ago.

With the end apparently in view to physical barriers in the canal, the West squared off for negotiations with President Nasser over how the canal will be operated.

The Egyptian president ordered the nationalization of the waterway last July 26 and Egypt set up its own Suez Canal Authority to direct its operation.

Reports from Washington, said the State Department was prodding Nasser cautiously for an answer to the last Western proposal for collecting canal tolls, which used to total $100 million annually. Last month the United States, Britain, and France told U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold they favored letting the World Bank or some other neutral international agency collect tolls.

Under the plan, the agency designated would give Egypt 50 per cent of the income for operating costs of the canal and retain the remainder until the canal question is settled permanently.

However, American officials believed Nasser was proceeding with his own plan for operating the canal on Egyptian terms.

While the focus of world attention shifted back to the canal, Israeli forces turned over to the U. N. Emergency Force the Sharm el Sheikh area guarding the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba. U. N. officers said their troops would patrol the coastal area and set up observation posts. About 200 Finnish troops in UNEF took over from the Israelis.

Slippery Highways Blamed As 4 Youths Die in Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-year-old twin youths were killed by one collision on U. S. 20 near Geneva, and two Ohio University freshmen were killed in another collision on Ohio 3 in Medina County Friday night as heavy snows left northern Ohio highways slippery.

Twins Ronald H. and Donald H. Miller, formerly of Myersdale, Pa., were thrown from a car by the force of a collision one and a half miles west of Geneva in Ashtabula County.

The two had been working recently in Geneva and were riding in a car driven by Robert C. Lindeman, 20, also formerly of Meyersdale, Pa., and now working in Geneva.

Lindeman's car, heading east on the slush-covered highway, was in collision with a westbound car driven by Pasquale Mauri, 46, of Ashtabula.

The Ohio University students were identified by the patrol as Ray Weschler, 19, and Nelson W. Morris, 18, both of Cleveland.

Marine Guilty Of 4 Minor Accusations

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—A husky marine drill instructor was convicted Friday of four counts of tapping or touching recruits. He faces sentencing today.

Cpl. William R. Walsh, Lyndhurst, N. Y., had been charged with 24 counts of mistreatment of recruits. He was found innocent of 20 by a special court-martial board after four hours of deliberation.

The board reduced the severity of the four remaining charges. The word "struck" was removed from the charges and changed to either "tapping" or "touching."

The 25-year-old, 6-foot-2 Walsh had been charged with striking Pvt. David Lee Porter, 18, of Hartford, Vt., the government's chief witness. This charge was thrown out but Walsh was found guilty of touching Porter illegally.

The trial, fourth here in less than a month involving drill instructors charged with mistreating recruits, was touched off by Porter in a letter to his father. He claimed he was struck by Walsh with an iron bar. In testimony, Porter said he had been struck but did not know with what.

Ohio Hog Prices Showing Decline

COLUMBUS (AP)—Prices paid for market hogs at interior Ohio markets averaged five cents lower at $16.80 than last week's average price, the Ohio Department of Agriculture reports.

Most choice lightweight sows closed at $15.50-$16 with the heavier weight sows at $12.50-$15.

He Uses His Head To Advertise School

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—David Craig, a junior at Oklahoma A&M college, is using his head to show where he is from.

Craig, from Bartlesville, Okla., got a crew haircut with the initials "AM" cut on top.

It wasn't entirely voluntary though. Craig is one of a group of collegians who are planning a mountain-climbing trip to British Columbia next summer. One of the requirements is that the newer members must wear the initials of their schools.

Earl Motz, 18, of Lakewood, who was riding with Weschler, was in fair condition today in Lodi Community Hospital. He suffered possible internal injuries.

Two other Ohio University students riding in a car following Weschler's, suffered minor injuries when their car also became involved in the smashup. The two are Dante Maimone, 22, and Kenneth Spirkio, 21, both of Cleveland. Both were treated at the hospital and released.

Friday's snow closed several schools in Richland County as well as in Trumbull County.

East Liverpool reported a four-inch snowfall that snarled traffic and tied up school bus operations in Columbiana County.

Three inches had fallen by Friday night in Cleveland.

On the Ohio Turnpike, speed was cut to 40 m.p.h.

Associate County Agent Gives Personal View of 4-H Work

By PHIL GROVER
Associate County Agent

The 4-H Club is a youth organization to help tomorrow's citizens; physically, mentally, and spiritually. 4-H clubs provide opportunities for voluntary participation in programs, built on the needs and interests of the young people which enables them to join with friends for work, fun and fellowship.

Young people are quite pliable. It is important that wholesome and worthwhile activities are made available to these youngsters so as to help them learn to live in a changing world.

The experiences 4-H members

encounter in their club work has often had profound and far reaching results. Many young people have made vocational choices based upon their 4-H activities.

Young people are drawn into to efforts of the adults to improve their own work and conditions. 4-H club work contributes to family stability. 4-H clubs become a part of the economic and social life of the community. They are the community, working through the youth to constantly improve itself. They give training in cooperation through the opportunities for joint action.

Club work is based upon "Life situation" projects aimed at improving the farm or home. While we stress the importance of quality project work, I always try to keep in mind that 4-H project is simply a "means toward an end." The emotional and intellectual growth of the boy or girl is the main project goal which I am striving toward.

Fish Are Featured In Food Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the advent of Lent, fish will force beef to share the bargain counter this week.

Fresh fish in fillets and steaks, frozen specialties and such canned items as Tuna all will be featured at special prices at the meat counters.

Beef, which has almost monopolized the center of the supermarket stage in recent months, is not yielding the No. 1 position entirely, however. Round and rib roasts, steaks, chuck, pot roast, ground beef and stew beef all will be featured in some places.

Housewives who wish to very Lenten menus from fish will be happy to learn that eggs are cheaper this week, by two to four cents a dozen. The surplus of eggs is expected to continue for some time, too, so there's little likelihood of any immediate price rise.

To even things out a little for poultry farmers, chickens are up two to four cents a pound in some areas this week. Lamb, too, is two to four cents more expensive in scattered sections.

Pork prices, it is said, will hold above last year until November or December, when they may drop sharply.

Outstanding vegetable buys are potatoes from the Long Island Maine fall crops, Arizona and California lettuce, old cabbage from fall crop and such vegetables as beets, parsnips and turnips. Best fruit buys are still the citrus standbys, oranges and tangerines.

New potatoes from California and Florida, plus the Idaho baker, are rated as good buys, along with topped carrots, Western brussels sprouts, cabbage from Florida, yellow onions and greens like collard, kale and spinach.

Yellow sweet corn from Florida moved this week into the good buy class.

The housewife looking for something unusual may find a new item grown in California named a cherimoya. About as big as a large orange, the fruit is greenish in color now, but ripens to an orange-yellow shade and is supposed to taste like pineapple custard.

Livestock Men To Get Pointers At OSU Session

COLUMBUS — Ohio livestock producers may gain some pointers on producing quality beef, hear talks on meat and beef cattle research and listen to discussions on commercial ewe flock production at Farm and Home Week.

The department of animal science has scheduled afternoon sessions in Plumb Hall on the Ohio State University campus March 19, 20 and 21. Department members plan beef carcass cut-out demonstrations and many other program features.

The animal science program on Youth Day, March 21, will include a discussion of opportunities in the animal science field and explanations on fitting and showing hogs, beef cattle and sheep.

This year's Farm and Home Week, built around the theme "Beacon Light on the Future," will focus attention on what's ahead for Ohio farmers and homemakers. General assemblies are scheduled for the forenoons and departmental programs for the afternoons.

Shepherds Club Holds Annual Banquet

Fayette County Second in State In Per Farm Income, Group Is Told

Recent figures show that Fayette County had next to the highest per farm income in Ohio, Professor Larry Kauffman of the Animal Science Department of Ohio State University told a gathering of more than 200 at the annual Shepherds Club banquet at the Country Club.

Prof. Kauffman was the principal speaker of the after-dinner program, but he had to share the spotlight with the state director of Agriculture, Dr. James Hay.

Dr. Hay, who came to the banquet as a guest and not as the speaker, commented briefly on the responsibility of the Department of Agriculture to the people of Ohio, especially the farmers. He said he appreciated the invitation to come here, because it gave him an opportunity to get acquainted with the people of Fayette County. He also commended Willard Bitzer for the "tremendous sheep show" he arranged for the Ohio State Fair last summer.

Bitzer, one of the leaders of the Shepherds Club here, was president of the state Board of Agriculture and in charge of the sheep show.

IN THE ELECTION, Alvin Sexton was chosen for president of the club; Homer Wilson, vice-president; Edwin Buck, secretary and Eldon Marshall, treasurer.

Five directors also were elected: Eldon Marshall from Perry Twp., Glenn Whittington, Wayne Twp., Eugene Greer, Jasper Twp., Willard Bitzer, Marion Twp., Homer Wilson, Madison Twp. and G. B. Vance, Washington C. H.

The other directors, whose terms have another year to run are: Walter Thompson, Union Twp., Delbert Morris, Green Twp., Edwin Buck, Concord Twp., Alvin Sexton, Paint

Twp., and Leonard Allen, Jefferson Twp.

IN HIS TALK, Prof. Kauffman emphasized the importance of livestock in a balanced farm program.

He posed this common question: "In view of the population increase, can we, in the future, keep our dietary standard, or will we have to lower our high standard of living because of the increase in population?"

Answering it himself, Prof. Kauffman said "we should be optimistic, rather than pessimistic" and declared that "we could even expand our high standard of living."

He pointed out that when there is full employment and wages are high, the amount of food purchased does not necessarily increase, but the quality of diet goes much higher.

He noted, too, that in the system of free enterprise, competition stimulates production of better products faster, and often cheaper. "This is where research and science come in," he added.

Turning to the subject of particular interest to the Shepherds Club, Prof. Kauffman urged sheep raisers to increase the quality of lambs for meat and to back a consistent lamb and wool promotion campaign.

GUESTS introduced by Toastmaster G. B. Vance included Dr. Hay; Prof. George Johnson of OSU; Paul Getz, secretary of the Ohio Wool Growers Assn.; Larry Baer of the Producers Livestock Co-operative Assn., Columbus; H. H. Walker, Ohio delegate on the American Sheep Producers Council; Ralph Grimshaw, extension animal science specialist, OSU, and Lyle Reiten, a lamb buyer.

Grimshaw outlined the educational program the Ohio Sheep Improvement Assn. is sponsoring. He also expressed regret that he could not give the final results of the Ohio commercial ewe flock contest. Twelve Fayette County farmers participated in the state-wide contest, he said, but the results will not be known for several days.

Harold Westfall's report on the 16 Shepherds Club lamb pools at the Producers Stockyards here showed the average sale price was $21.13; the average rate per pool lamb $18.80; the average weight 89 pounds and that a total of 10,183 lambs and sheep were sold through the pool.

THE YOUTH program of the Shepherds Club, was outlined by Phil Grover, associate county agent. He also introduced 30 members of 4-H clubs, Future Farmers and Junior Shepherds at the banquet as guests of the Shepherds Club.

The winners in the various contests sponsored by the Shepherds Club were given special introductions. They included the winners in the Junior Shepherds Club show July 13; first and fourth, Donna and Beverly Stanforth; second, Karen Sue Marshall and third and fifth, Michael Beatty.

Showmanship winners at the fair: Jane Mossbarger and George Iden. David Cook and Beverly Stanforth had the grand reserve champion market lamb respectively at the Fair.

Music for the evening was furnished by the "Three Teens," Barbara Sue Kneisley, Jackie Hoppes and Edna Mae Hoppes.

Phil Grover gave the invocation. The tables seating the guests for the serving of the lamb dinner were decorated with lamb vases filled with yellow and bronze mums. Favours for the ladies were yellow mums.

Associate County Agent Gives Personal View of 4-H Work

By PHIL GROVER
Associate County Agent

The 4-H Club is a youth organization to help tomorrow's citizens; physically, mentally, and spiritually. 4-H clubs provide opportunities for voluntary participation in programs, built on the needs and interests of the young people which enables them to join with friends for work, fun and fellowship.

Young people are quite pliable. It is important that wholesome and worthwhile activities are made available to these youngsters so as to help them learn to live in a changing world.

The experiences 4-H members

encounter in their club work has often had profound and far reaching results. Many young people have made vocational choices based upon their 4-H activities.

Young people are drawn into the efforts of the adults to improve their own work and conditions. 4-H club work contributes to family stability. 4-H clubs become a part of the economic and social life of the community. They are the community, working through the youth to constantly improve itself. They give training in cooperation through the opportunities for joint action.

Club work is based upon "Life situation" projects aimed at improving the farm or home. While we stress the importance of quality project work, I always try to keep in mind that 4-H project is simply a "means toward an end." The emotional and intellectual growth of the boy or girl is the main project goal which I am striving toward.

Fish Are Featured In Food Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the advent of Lent, fish will force beef to share the bargain counter this week.

Fresh fish in fillets and steaks, frozen specialties and such canned items as Tuna all will be featured at special prices at the meat counters.

Beef, which has almost monopolized the center of the supermarket stage in recent months, is not yielding the No. 1 position entirely, however. Round and rib roasts, steaks, chuck, pot roast, ground beef and stew beef all will be featured in some places.

Housewives who wish to very Lenten menus from fish will be happy to learn that eggs are cheaper this week, by two to four cents a dozen. The surplus of eggs is expected to continue for some time, too, so there's little likelihood of any immediate price rise.

To even things out a little for poultry farmers, chicken are up two to four cents a pound in some areas this week. Lamb, too, is two to four cents more expensive in scattered sections.

Pork prices, it is said, will hold above last year until November or December, when they may drop sharply.

Outstanding vegetable buys are potatoes from the Long Island Maine fall crops, Arizona and California lettuce, old cabbage for fall crop and such vegetables as beets, parsnips, and turnips. Best fruit buys are still the citrus standbys, oranges and tangerines.

New potatoes from California and Florida, plus the Idaho baker, are rated as good buys, along with topped carrots, Western broccoli, new cabbage from Florida, yellow onions and greens like collard, kale and spinach.

Yellow sweet corn from Florida moved this week into the good buy class.

The housewife looking for something unusual may find a new item grown in California named a cherimoya. About as big as a large orange, the fruit is greenish in color now, but ripens to an orange-yellow shade and is supposed to taste like pineapple custard.

Livestock Men To Get Pointers At OSU Session

COLUMBUS — Ohio livestock producers may gain some pointers on producing quality beef, hear talks on meat and beef cattle research and listen to discussions on commercial ewe flock production at Farm and Home Week.

The department of animal science has scheduled afternoon sessions in Plumb Hall on the Ohio State University campus March 19, 20 and 21. Department members plan beef carcass cut-out demonstrations and many other program features.

The animal science program on Youth Day, March 21, will include a discussion of opportunities in the animal science field and explanations on fitting and showing hogs, beef cattle and sheep.

This year's Farm and Home Week, built around the theme "Beacon Light on the Future," will focus attention on what's ahead for Ohio farmers and homemakers. General assemblies are scheduled for the forenoons and departmental programs for the afternoons.

WASHINGTON — Government subsidies totaling almost 16 million dollars helped boost the net income of Ohio farmers seven per cent to $2,307 last year, the Department of Agriculture reported.

The Ohio average is now slightly below the national average of $4,415, the department said.

Government payments totaled $15,985,000. This included $5,264,000 for conservation, $660,000 for sugar beet subsidies, $2,371,000 for wool subsidies, and $7,690,000 for soil bank payments. The department's figures also show that dairy product improved the Ohio farmer's income, as did increased prices for eggs and corn.

On the debit side, Ohio farmers had lower receipts for wheat and oats and a continued climb in expenses.

"Topsoil" is the most important ingredient in the commodity we know as "land".

Wild Life Crop Possible Under Soil Bank Plan

COLUMBUS (AP)—One farm crop not in surplus will be increased by the Soil Bank. That farm crop is wildlife, said T. C. Kennard, state conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Every soil-bank acre will add something to food and cover for wild birds and mammals that inhabit farmlands.

"The SCS regards wildlife as an important product of the land," Kennard explained. It helps and encourages farmers to recognize that wildlife, like other crops, must be managed and produced. Technicians show farmers how wildlife improvement fits logically into a soil and water conservation plan.

"The SCS will give Soil Bank participants the same kind of technical assistance on wildlife habitat development that it has given through Soil Conservation District operations."

The conservation reserve part of the Soil Bank offers cost-sharing for practices to improve wildlife habitat. But whether land goes in to the long term conservation reserve or is out of cultivation only one year under the acreage reserve, it will have an opportunity to grow cover and food plants useful to wildlife, Kennard said.

EVEN THE ANNUAL weeds that normally grow on uncultivated fields are staple foods of such species as quail and pheasants. Or cover crops planted to prevent erosion, being left unharvested, will furnish nesting cover and food.

The conservation reserve offers an opportunity for interested farmers to increase beneficial wildlife without disadvantage to farm income, Kennard believes. In the conservation reserve, Soil Bank acres may be used specifically to produce wildlife.

At the Soil-Bank pay window, wildlife land commands exactly the same return in annual rental as grassland or woodland. In addition, farmers may harvest or sell their wildlife crop during the contract term, a privilege that does not apply to grass or trees under normal conditions.

Disease-Free Hog Programs Stressed

Hog raisers are finding it difficult to locate disease-free breeding stock. Breeders are now attempting to develop programs to offer buyers hogs from disease-free herds, and individual swine producers can aid the campaign by considering several factors when buying breeding stock or keeping their animals healthy.

Hog raisers should keep foremost in their minds that No. 1 spreader of disease is infected breeding stock, reminds Successful Farming magazine. Cows, dogs, and other animals may also bring disease to your farm.

Before adding replacement stock, determine the health status of your own herd, the magazine says. It is foolish to place healthy hogs with an infected herd. Buy or make some signs in bold print stating simply "Keep out—Disease Control." Swine producers should develop a quarantine area for at least 30 days before adding new stock to the herd.

Raw meat or trimmings from your own farm are dangerous, says the magazine. Feed sterilized garbage only. Water from contaminated lots may seed down your premises with disease. Trucks, sacks, and shoes that have been in infected lots may bring you unwanted trouble.

Swine production is becoming highly specialized. Rate of gain and feed utilization is all important. Hogs harboring disease are not efficient, so for more profit it is logical to strive for a disease-free herd, the magazine says.

There are many advantages from pelleting rations for livestock, according to Colorado A. & M. and Illinois Experiment Stations tests.

Most important, are: added feed intake, increased gains when self-fed, less feed required to produce a pound of gain, improved carcass grade, reduced storage space, and savings in labor in handling feed.

For once the oft-heard argument that farmers cannot afford to use their land for wildlife does not hold, Kennard said. In the conservation reserve, production of farm game, fur animals, waterfowl, songbirds or fish has the same dollar value as any alternative use for the land.

Cost-sharing for establishing the new land use and applying conservation practices on wildlife land is scaled to the same basis—80 percent of cost—as where the farmer chooses to plant grass or trees.

THE SOIL BANK program contains three practices for conservation reserve acres designed especially to protect and produce wildlife. They are:

- (1) Establishment and management of cover specifically beneficial to wildlife.
- (2) Water and marsh management to benefit fish and wildlife.
- (3) Constructing dams or ponds for fish.

Whether a farmer used one or more of these special wildlife practices or devotes his reserved acres to pasture grasses, trees or water wildlife will benefit.

Whatever their ultimate use, the grasses, legumes, shrubs and trees planted on conservation reserve land may not be cut for harvest, except under certain emergency conditions, for the 3- or 10-year contract periods. Water impounded under any of the conservation reserve practices will be available for wildlife use.

These areas of protected wildlife habitat interspersed throughout the 13 million acres of cultivated land in Ohio, are sure to improve living conditions for wildlife, Kennard said.

Land eligible for the conservation reserve includes cropland that was tilled or was in regular crop rotation the year before the contract begins, or former cropland that was established in permanent cover, other than trees, since 1953.

The deadline for signing 1957 Conservation Reserve contracts is April 15.

Landowners can get full information concerning these contracts, by visiting their county ASC offices.

Peacetime Rocket Exploring Lauded

CINCINNATI (AP)—American atmospheric explorations with rockets are notable proof that swords can be turned into plowshares, a noted British scientist said yesterday.

Sir Edward Victor Appleton, Nobel Prize winner and vice chancellor of the University of Edinburgh, spoke at a student convocation at the University of Cincinnati. He said a World War II collaboration between the United States and France developed into a peacetime research project. Out of this program has come a forecasting system for predicting "radio weather" at great heights, essential in determining the best wavelength for use in long-distance radio circuits.

Missile Secrecy Lifting Is Urged

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) has suggested that some of the secrecy surrounding missile tests be lifted so the public will have a better understanding of this defense effort.

"Under the procedure, I believe it would be a good idea if responsible members of the press were allowed to see more of the actual operations here," Symington said after inspecting the missile sites at Patrick Air Force Base Thursday.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, said the public is "somewhat confused" over missiles. Contradictory news stories have developed in the wake of a few mishaps during tests.

The first U. S. president to travel through the Panama Canal was Franklin D. Roosevelt, aboard the U.S.S. Houston on Oct. 16, 1935.

EDITOR'S NOTE: These news highlights in economics and public affairs relating to agriculture are summarized by agricultural extension economists at Ohio State University.

Corn acreage reserve sign-up in Ohio to Friday, Feb. 22, totaled 89,586 acres in 8,026 agreements. The 89,586 acres placed in the acreage reserve came from an allotment of 115,921 acres on the 8,026 agreements. The average acreage placed in the corn acreage reserve is 11.2 acres out of an average allotment of 14.4 acres. The farmers signing have placed 77.3 percent of their allotment in this phase of the soil bank program.

Tobacco acreage reserve sign-up is as follows: Burley has 365 agreements with 305 acres placed in the acreage reserve out of an allotment of 321 acres on those farms participating. Cigar Filler has 41 agreements with 96 acres signed up out of an allotment of 138 acres on those farms participating.

General business picture not completely clear for 1957 but over all still seems to be considerable optimism. March should be a key month to watch trends to see if expected spring and summer upturn materializes.

Farm prices (index) dropped about 2 percent in month ended Feb. 15. Declines were reported for most commodities, led by hogs, milk and potatoes. February index was 234 percent of the 1910-14 base compared with 238 percent in January and 227 percent a year ago.

Prices paid by farmers increased about 1 percent in month ended Feb. 15 to about 294 percent of the 1910-14 base. This compares with 292 percent in January and 280 percent in February a year ago. Prices of food, feeder livestock and motor supplies contributed most to the increase. Parity ratio dropped back to 80, the post-World War II low point first established in November 1955.

Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank (4th District) in recent survey shows the average rate of interest on bank loans secured by farm real estate in mid 1956, was 5.2 percent; in 1947 they averaged 4.9 percent. For other farm loans (not secured by farm real estate) the average interest rate in mid 1956 was 6.2 percent compared to 5.7 percent in 1947. Prices of most other goods and services (taxes, labor, etc.) paid by farmers have increased more.

USDA report shows farm operators family living expenses in 1955 averaged $5,070 for those whose value of sales exceeded $10,000; $3,212 for those whose value of sales were from $1,200 to $9,999; $2,821 for those whose value of sales was $250 to $1,199, part time and residential farms, average for all classes was $3,309. Largest single item was $868 average for housing and second was $833 average for food.

Dairy situation for 1957 calls for little change from a year ago. Both milk production and total use expected to rise about the same rate. Price supports will be at 1956 level and average price to farmers expected to be about the same.

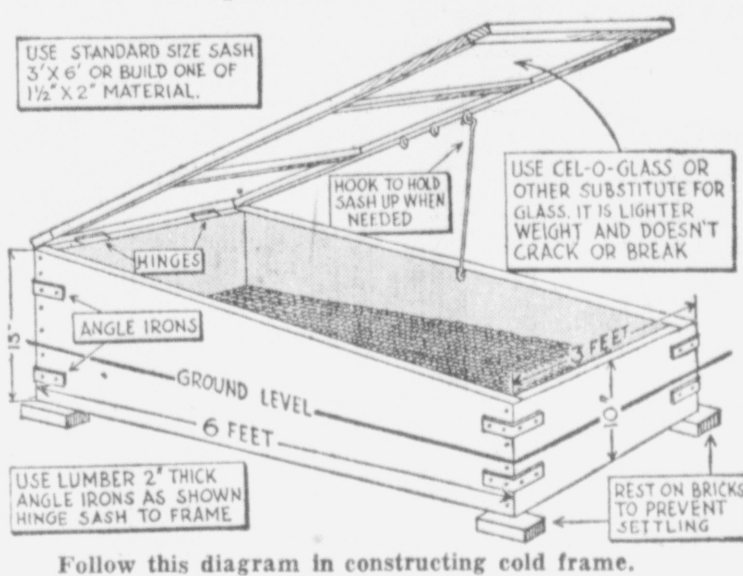

Chick production in January was 5 percent above same month of 1956 and 32 percent above average. Demand for broiler type chicks continued relatively strong while egg type is relatively weak.

Turkey heavy breed hen numbers were up 14 percent on Jan. 1 over year ago and light breed hen numbers were down 2 percent.

Food supplies in prospect for 1957 close to record level of last year. Domestic demand expected to continue strong reflecting high consumer incomes.

Cold Frame Warm Bed For Early Season Seeds

Follow this diagram in constructing cold frame.

One of man's earliest devices for protecting seeds and young plants from the destruction of cold weather is still doing a top-flight job—with modern refinements.

It is the cold frame—a wooden, glass-topped structure in which seeds can get an early start in growing eight weeks before frost disappears and outdoor gardens become safe.

The ancestor of the cold frame was nothing more elaborate than a pit in the ground. Primitive gardeners noticed thousands of years ago that plants flourished in pits, where they had protection from cold weather. The pits became a standard part of ancient gardening and are even used in some temperate climates today.

THE COLD FRAME, keeping out all cold while admitting the sun's rays through its glass top, is easily and inexpensively built. Using the sun's heat, it sometimes produces temperatures up to 100 degrees.

The accompanying diagram shows a small cold frame made to fit the standard, 3 by 6 foot sash. It can be altered, however, to fit a sash of any convenient size. The sash covering does not, necessarily, have to be glass. Any glass substitute—such as polyethylene—will serve to admit the sun's rays and will have the added advantage of being unbreakable.

A cold frame should always slope toward the south, in order to have uninterrupted sunshine. It can be made of 1-inch, or thicker, rot-resistant lumber, such as cypress or white pine.

USE THE above illustration as a working plan for constructing the frame. When you are ready to put it to use, dig a shallow pit which will permit the frame to fall about four feet below the level of the earth.

Then pile soil around the outside, tamping it so that no drafts can enter. The soil should be banked against the frame several inches all around.

As a final step, throw enough soil inside the frame to raise its floor to the level of the ground outside.

Seeds sowed in a frame are generally placed directly in the soil, but to make transplanting easier they can also be sowed in flats or seed boxes.

Corn Surplus Grows; Price Drop Blamed

NEW YORK — Sales of government-owned corn since Oct. 1 total over 100 million bushels, twice the year-ago figure, according to the Wall Street Journal. Grain men blame the 12-cent drop in corn prices since last November on this brisk business; they say it's driving more of the yellow grain into the support shelter.

The government sells older surplus corn, in danger of spoiling, back to growers. Midwest farmers snap up some of this corn for as little as $1.15 a bushel, or about 10 cents under the support level for farmers who ignored acreage allotments, according to the Journal. The prop or growers who abided by planting curbs is $1.50. Some farmers put their own corn under support, feed the bargain government grain to their livestock.

By mid-January, farmers had put 212 million bushels of 1956 corn under loan, 12 million more than the year before. But by the May 31 deadline, growers may take prop aid on a record 600 million, 179 million more than in 1955-56, grain men predict.

At the start of the year, the government had over $2 billion tied up in 1.2 billion bushels of surplus corn.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

One of the best known educational institutions in this part of Ohio 100 years ago was the Bloomingburg Academy, which attracted many people interested in higher education, and was, for many years, a leading institution of learning.

I have on my desk a "Programme of exercises at Bloomingburg Academy, Tuesday evening, June 25th, 1866" (Note the "h" on the end of Bloomingburg).

This interesting program, now 91 years old, is very lengthy, and includes 55 musical numbers, "declarations and compositions," given by persons from various surrounding points as well as Bloomingburg.

How they got through 55 numbers in one evening, I do not know, unless it was carried forward until the "wee sma' hours" of the following morning.

The performers included: Misses Lizzie Snyder, Anna Gordon and Mary Hemphill, Bloomingburg; Henry Bown, Washington C. H.; Joseph Siddens, Good Hope; Miss Laura Hughes and Miss Lizzie Busic, Mount Sterling; Miss Callie Todhunter, Greenfield; Miss Mollie Reber, Circleville; Flora McAfferty, and Miss Mollie Stout, Waterloo; Miss Amelia Cockerill and Miss Ella Doster, Greenfield; E. W. Welsheimer, Good Hope; E. H. Shultz, Circleville.

The 53th number on the program was the benediction, and I'll bet it was one time when the benediction was really welcome.

It is noted on the bottom of the program that it was "Fayette County Herald Print."

FIRE CHIEF 20 YEARS

On March 5, Fire Chief George Hall observed the 20th anniversary of his elevation to the post of chief of the department.

On the same date Capt. Charles Crone had served 20 years as captain, in addition to several years of prior service.

Chief Hall started with the fire department in 1923 as a volunteer, and after several years became a full-time fireman on vacation, then received his regular appointment.

He succeeded Earl Leach as chief, after "Pen," as he was familiarly known, had served 11 years as chief, and several other years as regular fireman.

Chief Hall was named chief by City Manager G. H. Sollars, the city's first city manager, and Manager Sollars named Crone captain and Emil (Rusty) Wilson captain at the same time.

STILL GOING NORTH

More wild geese have been heard passing over Fayette County headed north, the past few days.

Mrs. Warren L. Bryan, 121 W. Market St., heard one flock passing over the city about 3:30 a. m. Tuesday.

HIDY CEMETERY MARKERS

Recently we visited the Hidy Cemetery, which is located on the east bank of Paint Creek, on the Hidy Rd., in Paint Township, and I was surprised to find it one of the oldest cemeteries in Fayette County, with some burials as far back as 1815. That was five years after Washington C. H. was founded.

I was also impressed by the fact that three graves in the old cemetery bear "War of 1812" markers with miniature American flags, badly faded, flying from the markers.

One of these soldiers of the war of 1812 was James Thompson, who died in 1833 at the age of 73 years. Another was Michael Carr, 74, who died in 1857 and the third one was Elijah Griffith, 72, who died in 1854.

Among the old markers in the cemetery were three, on which (on the same side as the inscription of the deceased) were names of the monument dealers who erected the monuments. Two of them had the addresses of the dealers.

Even in those early days I guess the "tombstone" dealers thought it paid to advertise.

One of the names is on a slab, broken off, bearing the inscription "Mary, wife of Joseph H. Bloomer, died Oct. 1822, in the 35th year of her age."

The monument dealer had inscribed in small letters near the base of the monument, "A. C. and C. J. Smith, Chillicothe."

On the Joel Wood (1834) marker was the dealer's name "E. Brahl Morrow," while on another slab marking the grave of James McDarman (1831) was the dealer's name "D. E. Toly, Dayton."

The oldest marker in the cemetery was erected for a person named "Abbey," in 1815.

I also noted that the first members of the Hidy family (and there are many of them) buried in the cemetery, spelled their name "Hydy."

The cemetery is on high ground, well kept, and is the last resting place of some of the county's foremost pioneer residents and their descendants.

Concrete Drain Tile

Farm land is made more productive when properly drained. Can be worked earlier. Soil fertility is increased.

But be sure your tile is CONCRETE. For properly made concrete tile gets better with age. Won't crumble or shale under frost. Always perfectly round and true. Dense, firm and strong. All sizes. Low prices.

Living on Moon Said No Problem

DALLAS (AP)—An Air Force scientist says modern science now can create an artificial environment which would sustain human life on the moon but that the problem is getting there and back.

Lt. Col. John P. Stapp, chief of the Aero-Medical Field Laboratory at Holloman Air Development Center, N. M., said his lab is conducting tests on the creation of artificial environments.

"Tropical fish can live on the North Pole if they are kept in an enclosed aquarium at proper temperatures," Col. Stapp said. "In the same way, man can transplant an enclosure of human proportions anywhere he wants it. It will sustain life so long as proper temperatures, oxygen, pressure, food and water are available."

Wild Life Crop Possible Under Soil Bank Plan

COLUMBUS (AP)—One farm crop not in surplus will be increased by the Soil Bank. That farm crop is wildlife, said T. C. Kennard, state conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Every soil-bank acre will add something to food and cover for wild birds and mammals that inhabit farmlands.

"The SCS regards wildlife as an important product of the land," Kennard explained. It helps and encourages farmers to recognize that wildlife, like other crops, must be managed and produced. Technicians show farmers how wildlife improvement fits logically into a soil and water conservation plan.

"The SCS will give Soil Bank participants the same kind of technical assistance on wildlife habitat development that it has given through Soil Conservation District operations."

The conservation reserve part of the Soil Bank offers cost-sharing for practices to improve wildlife habitat. But whether land goes into the long term conservation reserve or is out of cultivation only one year under the acreage reserve, it will have an opportunity to grow cover and food plants useful to wildlife, Kennard said.

EVEN THE ANNUAL weeds that normally grow on uncultivated fields are staple foods of such species as quail and pheasants. Or cover crops planted to prevent erosion, being left unharvested, will furnish nesting cover and food.

The conservation reserve offers an opportunity for interested farmers to increase beneficial wildlife without disadvantage to farm income, Kennard believes. In the conservation reserve, Soil Bank acres may be used specifically to produce wildlife.

At the Soil-Bank pay window, wildlife land commands exactly the same return in annual rental as grassland or woodland. In addition, farmers may harvest or sell their wildlife crop during the contract term, a privilege that does not apply to grass or trees under normal conditions.

Disease-Free Hog Programs Stressed

Hog raisers are finding it difficult to locate disease-free breeding stock. Breeders are now attempting to develop programs to offer buyers hogs from disease-free herds, and individual swine producers can aid the campaign by considering several factors when buying breeding stock or keeping their animals healthy.

Hog raisers should keep foremost in their minds that No. 1 spreader of disease is infected breeding stock, reminds Successful Farming magazine. Crows, dogs, and other animals may also bring disease to your farm.

Before adding replacement stock, determine the health status of your own herd, the magazine says. It is foolish to place healthy hogs with an infected herd. Buy or make some signs in bold print stating simply "Keep out—Disease Control." Swine producers should develop a quarantine area for at least 30 days before adding new stock to the herd.

Raw meat or trimmings from your own farm are dangerous, says the magazine. Feed sterilized garbage only. Water from contaminated lots may seed down your premises with disease. Trucks, sacks, and shoes that have been in infected lots may bring you unwanted trouble.

Swine production is becoming highly specialized. Rate of gain and feed utilization is all important. Hogs harboring disease are not efficient, so for more profit it is logical to strive for a disease-free herd, the magazine says.

There are many advantages from pelleting rations for livestock, according to Colorado A. & M. and Illinois Experiment Stations tests.

Most important, are: added feed intake, increased gains when self-fed, less feed required to produce a pound of gain, improved carcass grade, reduced storage space, and savings in labor in handling feed.

For once the oft-heard argument that farmers cannot afford to use their land for wildlife does not hold, Kennard said. In the conservation reserve, production of farm game, fur animals, waterfowl, songbirds or fish has the same dollar value as any alternative use for the land.

Cost-sharing for establishing the new land use and applying conservation practices on wildlife land is scaled to the same basis—80 percent of cost—as where the farmer chooses to plant grass or trees.

THE SOIL BANK program contains three practices for conservation reserve acres designed especially to protect and produce wildlife. They are:

- (1) Establishment and management of cover specifically beneficial to wildlife.
- (2) Water and marsh management to benefit fish and wildlife.
- (3) Constructing dams or ponds for fish.

Whether a farmer used one or more of these special wildlife practices or devotes his reserved acres to pasture grasses, trees or water wildlife will benefit.

Whatever their ultimate use, the grasses, legumes, shrubs and trees planted on conservation reserve land may not be cut for harvest, except under certain emergency conditions, for the 3-5- or 10-year contract periods. Water impounded under any of the conservation reserve practices will be available for wildlife use.

These areas of protected wildlife habitat interspersed throughout the 13 million acres of cultivated land in Ohio, are sure to improve living conditions for wildlife, Kennard said.

Land eligible for the conservation reserve includes cropland that was tilled or was in regular crop rotation the year before the contract begins, or former cropland that was established in permanent cover, other than trees, since 1953.

The deadline for signing 1957 Conservation Reserve contracts is April 15.

Landowners can get full information concerning these contracts, by visiting their county ASC offices.

Missile Secrecy Lifting Is Urged

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) has suggested that some of the secrecy surrounding missile tests be lifted so the public will have a better understanding of this defense effort.

"Under the procedure, I believe it would be a good idea if responsible members of the press were allowed to see more of the actual operations here," Symington said after inspecting the missile sites at Patrick Air Force Base Thursday.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, said the public is "somewhat confused" over missiles. Contradictory news stories have developed in the wake of a few mishaps during tests.

The first U. S. president to travel through the Panama Canal was Franklin D. Roosevelt, aboard the U.S.S. Houston on Oct. 16, 1935.

Econogram

EDITOR'S NOTE: These news highlights in economics and public affairs relating to agriculture are summarized by agricultural extension economists at Ohio State University.

Corn acreage reserve sign-up in Ohio to Friday, Feb. 22, totaled 89,586 acres in 8,026 agreements. The 89,586 acres placed in the acreage reserve came from an allotment of 115,921 acres on the 8,026 agreements. The average acreage placed in the corn acreage reserve is 11.2 acres out of an average allotment of 14.4 acres. The farmers signing have placed 77.3 percent of their allotment in this phase of the soil bank program.

Tobacco acreage reserve sign up is as follows: Burley has 365 agreements with 305 acres placed in the acreage reserve out of an allotment of 321 acres on those farms participating. Cigar Filler has 41 agreements with 96 acres signed up out of an allotment of 138 acres on those farms participating.

General business picture not completely clear for 1957 but over all still seems to be considerable optimism. March should be a key month to watch trends to see if expected spring and summer upturn materializes.

Farm prices (index) dropped about 2 percent in month ended Feb. 15. Declines were reported for most commodities, led by hogs, milk and potatoes. February index was 234 percent of the 1910-14 base compared with 238 percent in January and 227 percent a year ago.

Prices paid by farmers increased about 1 percent in month ended Feb. 15 to about 294 percent of the 1910-14 base. This compares with 292 percent in January and 280 percent in February a year ago. Prices of food, feeder livestock and motor supplies contributed most to the increase. Parity ratio dropped back to 80, the post-World War II low point first established in November 1955.

Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank (4th District) in recent survey shows the average rate of interest on bank loans secured by farm real estate in mid 1956, was 5.2 percent; in 1947 they averaged 4.9 percent. For other farm loans (not secured by farm real estate) the average interest rate in mid 1956 was 6.2 percent compared to 5.7 percent in 1947. Prices of most other goods and services (taxes, labor, etc.) paid by farmers have increased more.

USDA report shows farm operators family living expenses in 1955 averaged $5,070 for those whose value of sales exceeded $10,000; $3,212 for those whose value of sales were from $1,000 to $9,999; $2,821 for those whose value of sales was $250 to $1,199, part time and residential farms, average for all classes was $3,309. Largest single item was $868 average for housing and second was $833 average for food.

Dairy situation for 1957 calls for little change from a year ago. Both milk production and total use expected to rise about the same rate. Price supports will be at 1956 level and average price to farmers expected to be about the same.

Chick production in January was 5 percent above same month of 1956 and 32 percent above average. Demand for broiler type chicks continued relatively strong while egg type is relatively weak.

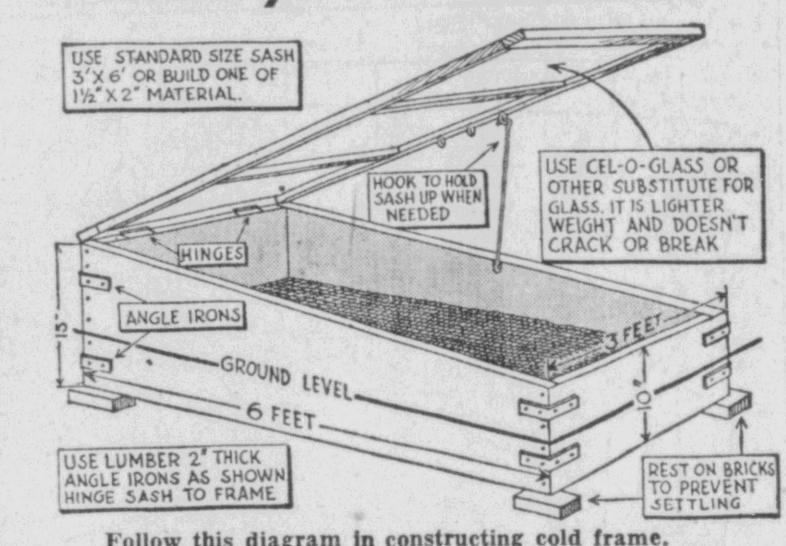

Turkey heavy breed hen numbers were up 14 percent on Jan. 1 over year ago and light breed hen numbers were down 2 percent.

Food supplies in prospect for 1957 close to record level of last year. Domestic demand expected to continue strong reflecting high consumer incomes.

COLUMBUS — You're going to be eating more potato chips from Ohio grown potatoes in the years immediately ahead, an Ohio State University extension economist predicts.

R. L. Bere, specialist in fruit and vegetable marketing, says Ohio growers are selling more potatoes for shipping than ever before and the trend probably will continue as long as they can supply the quality of potatoes that chipper demand.

Bere points out that while the consumption of potatoes in the United States has declined from 125 pounds per person 20 years ago to around 100 pounds at present, the consumption of chips has increased considerably.

About 10 percent of the potatoes in the country now are being processed into chips, compared with 1 percent 20 years ago. In Ohio the percentage of potatoes going into chips is even higher, Bere says.

The economist also notes that the state's potato industry is moving rapidly into the hands of larger and fewer growers. There now are approximately 400 growers in the state with 10 acres or more of potatoes. They produce about 85 percent of the Ohio crop.

In 1954 they produced around 4 1/2 million bushels of potatoes, about 1 million more than 700 Ohio growers produced 10 years earlier.

During the 10-year period from 1944 to 1954, the average yield of potatoes in Ohio increased from about 100 bushels to the acre to more than 250 bushels. Growers with larger acreages had the greatest yield increases. Yields among growers with over 25 acres of potatoes increased by 175 bushels to the acre, while yields among growers with less than three acres increased only 60 bushels to the acre.

At the start of the year, the government had over $2 billion tied up in 1.2 billion bushels of surplus corn.

One of the best known educational institutions in this part of Ohio 100 years ago was the Bloomingburg Academy, which attracted many people interested in higher education, and was, for many years, a leading institution of learning.

I have on my desk a "Programme of exercises at Bloomingburg Academy, Tuesday evening, June 25th, 1866" (Note the "h" on the end of Bloomingburg).

This interesting program, now 91 years old, is very lengthy, and includes 55 musical numbers, "declarations and compositions," given by persons from various surrounding points as well as Bloomingburg.

How they got through 55 numbers in one evening, I do not know, unless it was carried forward until the "wee sma' hours" of the following morning.

The performers included: Misses Lizzie Snyder, Anna Gordon and Mary Hemphill, Bloomingburg; Henry Bown, Washington C. H.; Joseph Siddens, Good Hope; Miss Laura Hughes and Miss Lizzie Busic, Mount Sterling; Miss Callie Todhunter, Greenfield; Miss Mollie Reber, Circleville; Flora McAfferty, and Miss Mollie Stout, Waterbury; Miss Amelia Cockerill and Miss Ella Doster, Greenfield; E. W. Welsheimer, Good Hope; E. H. Shultz, Circleville.

The 55th number on the program was the benediction, and I'll bet it was one time when the benediction was really welcome.

It is noted on the bottom of the program that it was "Fayette County Herald Print."

FIRE CHIEF 20 YEARS
On March 5, Fire Chief George Hall observed the 20th anniversary of his elevation to the post of chief of the department.

On the same date Capt. Charles Crone had served 20 years as captain, in addition to several years of prior service.

Chief Hall started with the fire department in 1923 as a volunteer, and after several years became a full-time fireman on vacation, then received his regular appointment.

He succeeded Earl Leach as chief, after "Pen", as he was familiarly known, had served 11 years as chief, and several other years as regular fireman.

Chief Hall was named chief by City Manager G. H. Sollars, the city's first city manager, and Manager Sollars named Crone captain and Emil (Rusty) Wilson captain at the same time.

STILL GOING NORTH
More wild geese have been heard passing over Fayette County, headed north, the past few days.

Mrs. Warren L. Bryan, 121 W. Market St., heard one flock passing over the city about 3:30 a. m. Tuesday.

HIDY CEMETERY MARKERS
Recently we visited the Hidy Cemetery, which is located on the east bank of Paint Creek, on the Hidy Rd., in Paint Township, and I was surprised to find it one of the oldest cemeteries in Fayette County, with some burials as far back as 1815. That was five years after Washington C. H. was founded.

I was also impressed by the fact that three graves in the old cemetery bear "War of 1812" markers with miniature American flags, badly faded, flying from the markers.

One of these soldiers of the war

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Old revolutionist Eamon de Valera declared yesterday that he will crack down on "private armies" when he takes over as prime minister of the Irish Republic.

His statement obviously was aimed at the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) which would use force to end the separation of the six northern counties (still united with the British crown) from the rest of Ireland. IRA has launched an aggressive campaign of border raids and terrorist attacks in northern Ireland in recent weeks.

With a working majority of 17 to 20 votes in the Irish Dail (parliament) won in Tuesday's elections, De Valera's election as prime minister for a third time is a foregone conclusion. Parliament meets March 20.

The 74-year-old nearly blind De Valera said he wants to unite the north and south but armed action by "a group of individuals would lead only to anarchy."

The one-time leader of the uprising to free Ireland from British rule insisted:

"Today we cannot permit any private army. We have a free and open parliament to seek unification of the country."

Living on Moon Said No Problem

DALLAS (AP)—An Air Force scientist says modern science now can create an artificial environment which would sustain human life on the moon but that the problem is getting there and back.

Lt. Col. John P. Stapp, chief of the Aero-Medical Field Development Center, N. M., said his lab is conducting tests on the creation of artificial environments.

"Tropical fish can live on the North Pole if they are kept in an enclosed aquarium at proper temperatures," Col. Stapp said. "In the same way, man can transplant an enclosure of human proportions anywhere he wants it. It will sustain life so long as proper temperatures, oxygen, pressure, food and water are available."

of 1812 was James Thompson, who died in 1833 at the age of 73 years.

Another was Michael Carr, 74, who died in 1857 and the third one was Elijah Griffith, 72, who died in 1854.

Among the old markers in the cemetery were three, on which (on the same side as the inscription of the deceased) were names of the monument dealers who erected the monuments. Two of them had the addresses of the dealers.

Even in those early days I guess the "tombstone" dealers thought it paid to advertise.

One of the names is on a slab, broken off, bearing the inscription "Mary, wife of Joseph H. Bloomer, died Oct. 1822, in the 35th year of her age."

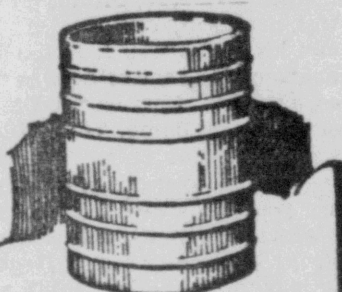

The monument dealer had inscribed in small letters near the base of the monument, "A. C. and C. J. Smith, Chillicothe."

On the Joel Wood (1834) marker was the dealer's name "E. Brahl Morrow," while on another slab marking the grave of James McDarman (1831) was the dealer's name "D. E. Toly, Dayton."

The oldest marker in the cemetery was erected for a person named "Abbey," in 1815.

I also noted that the first members of the Hidy family (and there are many of them,) buried in the cemetery, spelled their name "Hydy."

The cemetery is on high ground, well kept, and is the last resting place of some of the county's foremost pioneer residents and their descendants.

Concrete Drain Tile

Farm land is made more productive when properly drained. Can be worked earlier. Soil fertility is increased.

But be sure your tile is CONCRETE. For properly made concrete tile gets better with age. Won't crumble or shale under frost. Always perfectly round and true. Dense, firm and strong. All sizes. Low prices.

Our Climb In Population Is Outstanding

The rapid increase in population of our country and what it means for the future, is a matter of extensive speculation on the part of many people and publications just now.

The quick rise in population is striking because so far as most historians can point out, there has been nothing like it in world history.

Very few adults in any of our living generations expected such a sharp rise in our population, or would have guessed some years ago that today our nation has over 170 million people within its borders; that predictions are made that in 10 years this population will rise to 200 million. Others are declaring that by the year 2000 the United States will have at least 338 million people living within its confines.

It is not too hard to recognize that this may be true if we just account for the steady rise in population in a small conservative city like our own Washington C. H. Not so many years ago we were boasting here that we had reached the 10,000 mark in our city. Now those who have made careful estimates, declare that we have passed 13,000 population. Many other cities have grown at a faster rate.

One of our country's leading publications has summarized a new statistic accounting by the Census Bureau. "It took 273 years for this country to acquire its first 50 million and 35 years to add its second. And it was 34 years more before the 150 - million mark was reached in 1948." However, the nation was just beginning to grow:

"At the presently indicated rate of growth, the U. S. population will be up to 200 million by 1967. This means it will have taken only 18 years to add the fourth 50 million. Only 14 years later, by 1981, the population is due to be up another 50 million to a total of 250 million."

The report goes on to recount how America's population will continue to climb at an unprecedented rate. Only India and China are growing as fast, the Soviet Union having fallen well behind in the last decade.

Population figures tell of the confidence and well-being of Americans. They offer a guide for measuring future development in agriculture and industry. They provide an indication of the massive growth of metropolitan areas in years to come. They speak of the great problems and opportunities that are ahead.

America is "new" every 24 hours. What was true of consumer markets yesterday has already been changed by today's births, alien registrations, marriages, deaths. Families are being formed at the rate of 1.6 million a year, but presently the number is expected to be doubled.

Also year by year the pressure for more industrial goods, more food, more living space will increase, seemingly without end.

The Need for Criticism

By George Sokolsky

When Franklin D. Roosevelt was president, criticism of him and his works was regarded as anathema and the critic was called either pro-Nazi or pro-Fascist or just plain dumb. This attitude was a product of an insistence that "papa knows best," and who are you to question the unerring wisdom of Tommy Corcoran or Henry Wallace or Harry Hopkins or any of the other brilliant minds who must have added to the president's tribulations, particularly Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and Harold Ickes.

Nowadays, much the same attitude presents itself concerning President Eisenhower and entourage. I asked a Republican of ancient lineage and constant steadfastness to define a "modern Republican." Quick as a flash he replied: "A modern Republican is a member of the Eisenhower administration who was not a Republican before 1952."

It is a good and telling definition because the so-called "modern Republicans" seem to have no recollection that their party has a history that goes back to 1854 and that it had elected some 13 presidents between Abraham Lincoln and Dwight D. Eisenhower inclusive and that it has established certain principles of American life which have helped to shape the nature of American history. I recently received a letter from Earl R. Kochheiser of Mansfield, Ohio, who says:

"It is a most difficult task to lead a country in the path of peace, upright living, ethical practice and honest, when you are confronted with the many isms which are known to exist throughout the world today. What these men (Eisenhower and Dulles) need is support and not criticism, regardless of party lines." The phrase, "regardless of party lines," is what is wrong with this gentleman's thinking, because if there is only one party, without criticism of its conduct, a dictatorship develops, and there are no benevolent dictators. This country has survived in freedom because of the constant checking of executive conduct in the Congress and in the press. When such criticism disappears, officials become arrogant.

The two-party system has proved its value in the Anglo-Saxon countries. The multi-party countries tend to lack stability; the one-party countries end in dictatorships.

Mr. Kochheiser refers to "the many isms which are known to exist throughout the world today." This half-word, isms, has become a symbol of some kind of badness, although actually an ism is a movement based on an idea or an ideal, and as far back as one can find any record, human beings have been thinking and have produced isms. In that respect, the era in which we live is no different from any other.

It is loose thinking to lump all isms together as it would be to lump all human experience into a single category. For instance, would one say that paganism and monotheism are the identical ism, or that capitalism and socialism are the same, or that idealism and pragmatism are in one category? Our general quarrel with communism has caused many Americans to fall into the error of regarding all associations with mass movements, or with idealistic programs for the human race, as evil.

The pressure for orthodoxy, nowadays called conformity, usually comes from those who hold power, because they can remain longest in power when there is no opposition or the opposition is weakened by social or physical pressure. The very argument which was used by Democrats when Roosevelt was president is now being used by Republicans when Eisenhower is president, namely, that it is unseemly to criticize the conduct of the president because he is a good man.

If criticism is unseemly or improper or must be "constructive," which is really a synonym for agreeable, how does the two-party system operate? It is curious that the Democratic leadership of Senator Lyndon Johnson has tended more and more to avoid scrutiny of Republican conduct because the President is personally popular. Democratic criticism has fallen to Senators Hubert Humphrey, Mike Mansfield and William Fulbright who represent an intellectual as well as a political approach to current problems.

But the Republican party, both in the Senate and the House of Representatives, is seething with revolt, particularly against the $72,000,000,000 budget, recognizing that by 1958 a tax revolt is to be expected. The curiosity of the present Congress is that there is more opposition to the Eisenhower program among Republicans than among Democrats—or as much.

Five hundred British coal miners have gone on strike because the orange pekoe served them was too weak. What's that old saying about a "tempest in a teapot"?

Teaching a child safety habits, for example, shouldn't be neglected simply because it's easier to tell him not to do something after he already has done it.

Poor Way

Advising a youngster to "Stop that" after he has done something he shouldn't is a poor way of teaching him. It's a poor way of protecting him.

Keeping your youngster safe takes a lot of planning and forethought. So does teaching him safety fundamentals. Patient teaching by example does a lot more good than reminding a child that he has done something wrong.

Danger Spots

Keeping him out of cabinets and rows of drawers, for example, can be accomplished easily if you simply pass a ruler or some other stick through the handles. Sharp knives and pointed utensils, of course, should be kept where a child can't reach them.

But this isn't enough. You've got to show the youngster how these utensils are used and what they are used for. In this way he comes to realize that they are not toys, but have a definite use and that there is a definite time for their use.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

C. L.: What causes whiteheads and what can be done for them?

Answer: Whiteheads are caused by blocked ducts of the sebaceous glands of the face.

The face should be steamed and the whiteheads squeezed with a whitehead extractor, or with the fingers over which a clean towel has been placed.

More Aid Urged For Asia, Africa

WASHINGTON (U-P)—A presidential advisory board has urged Congress to put up millions of dollars for grants and easy term loans to help Asian-African countries develop their economies.

The proposal was made in a report to President Eisenhower by the International Development Advisory Board, headed by Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America.

The report mentioned no specific figure, but called for a "substantial increase" in the $385 million appropriated annually for strictly nonmilitary aid.

Twister Lashed Bookwalter 40 Years Ago

By B. E. KELLEY
Forty years ago on March 11, a tornado, equally as violent as the one which wrecked part of Washington C. H. on Sept. 8, 1885, swept across northern Fayette County, leaving a trail of ruin in its wake. Fortunately there was no loss of life.

A short time prior to wiping out two churches, a school house and numerous other buildings in the Bookwalter area, the tornado had struck New Castle, Ind., 100 miles to the northwest, killing 21 people, injuring 200 others and demolishing around 500 homes and part of the business area.

The huge black funnel then lifted, the storm swept southeastward over Richmond, Ind. and Dayton, and then suddenly descended an hour later, at 6:30 p. m. three miles west of Bookwalter.

After cutting a path through the thinly settled area west and east of that community the roaring, twisting, zig-zagging funnel, with a width of 100 yards or less, lifted, and after wrecking a barn on the Forrest Cline farm on the Danville Rd., vanished over the Orient area.

IT WAS KNOWN that the tornado was the same one which wrecked New Castle because a photograph and some papers picked up in the path of the storm at Bookwalter bore the New Castle name.

Apparently the storm carried objects from Bookwalter to the region of Orient before dumping them to the ground, for 10 days after the storm struck, Ford Ervin, whose modern farm home was completely demolished a mile east of Bookwalter, received a letter from an Orient resident, stating that he had found a used with some lumber dropped by the storm, and if Ervin would send postage, he would send a deed.

Of course Ervin sent the postage and got the deed, which was still legible after its 15-mile journey of 15 miles or more, in the vortex of a tornado. He still has it.

WHEN THE BIG black funnel left the storm cloud and dined down in Fayette County, it first struck the Frank Snodgrass farm, on Route 70, northwest of Jeffersonville, wrecking his barn.

Then, whirling across considerable open country, without heavy damage, it dined into Paint Creek immediately west of Bookwalter, and sucked water from the creek up into the vortex of the twister.

In an instant the cloud, which was whirling with terrific force and traveling nearly a mile a minute had struck the John Paul store building and residence in the southern part of Bookwalter, unroofed it and broke out most of the windows and doors, as well as wrecking two or three small houses to the northward where the main fury of the storm seemed to center.

Alvin Pierce was driving a horse attached to a buggy, near the Paul store. He saw the funnel approaching, and by whipping his horse into a run he dashed up the road and the twister passed within a few rods of him.

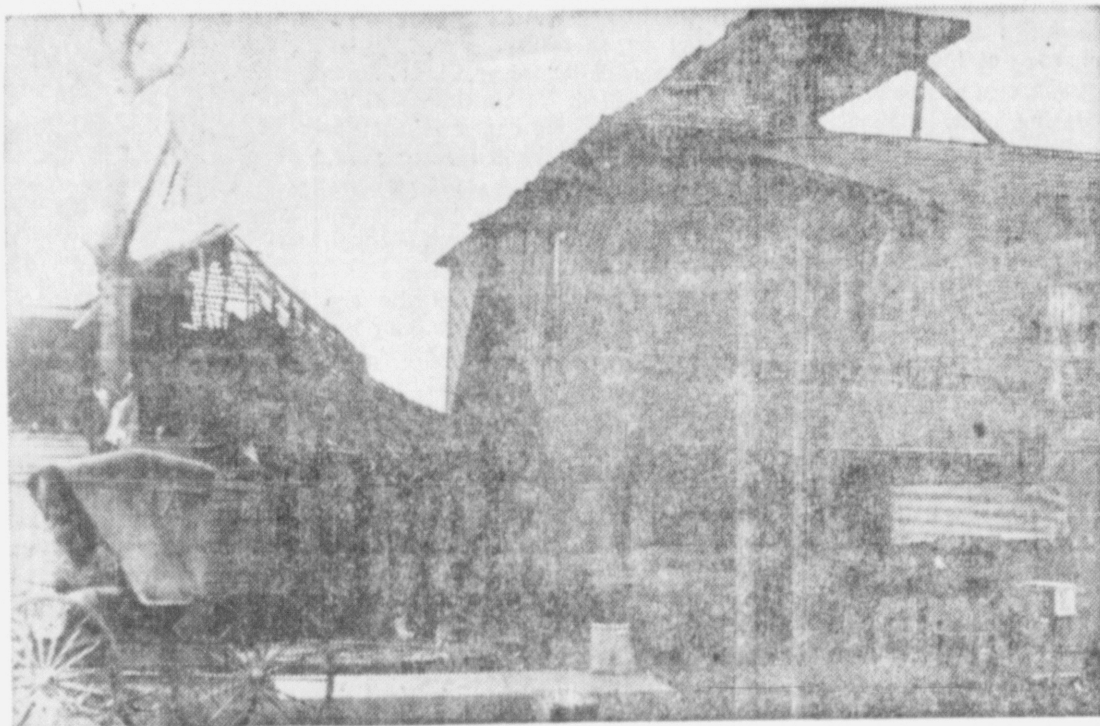

ERVIN, his wife and two daughters, Louise and Martha, were at home when Ervin heard the terrifying roar of the twister and saw it tear away the roof of the Paul Store and house a mile distant.

Rushing into the house he hurried his family into the cellar, and a moment later the tornado had demolished the house over their heads, all farm buildings, killed a horse, injured others, and killed and injured several hogs.

The Ervin family escaped with minor injuries.

A farm wagon with a plow in the bed, was picked up, on the Ervin premises, carried a quarter of a mile, and left upright in a field. The plow had been set down in the field, but no trace of the wagon bed was ever found.

Mr. and Mrs. William Coe, parents of Cleon Coe, storekeeper at Bookwalter, resided on the Wesley Chapel Rd., 200 yards east of Bookwalter. The barn and part of the house were unroofed, and most of the windows broken out.

Mr. and Mrs. Coe took refuge in a fruit house or cave near the house, and when Cleon, who was in Bookwalter at the time, reached the premises, he found his parents trapped in the partly demolished building and rescued them through a window.

THE SCHOOLHOUSE and Baptist Church in Bookwalter were demolished. The C. D. (Dutch) Yeoman home was twisted about on the foundation and most of the windows were broken out.

Other homes in the area were damaged considerably, and a grove of trees near the Grasshopper railroad, immediately east of Bookwalter, was practically denuded of branches, but few of the trees were broken off or uprooted.

On the Ervin farm trees in an orchard about the house were unroofed and all turned with their tops toward the center of the twister.

Wesley Chapel Methodist Church on Prairie Rd., was practically blown away, and only the foundations sills and stones they rested on, were left.

An hour later 100 people would have been assembled in the church for Sunday evening worship.

PERRY MOWERY'S home just south of the church sustained considerable damage.

At the William Coe home a set of buggy harness had been carried from the barn several rods distant, and suspended on a nail in the wall of the roofless kitchen.

Mrs. Deane Draper, residing on Prairie Rd., a mile south of the path of the storm, heard the terrific roar of the tornado, and looking northward, was terrified by the black funnel extending from the cloud to the earth, lifting and dropping, traveling at frightful speed and the air filled with flying debris.

Numerous farm homes and other buildings suffered heavily as result of the tornado, but no one was injured seriously.

Property damage was placed at around $100,000 and most of it was

RESIDENTS of the community who passed through the storm or who saw it as it whipped across the countryside, still shudder when they recall their experience in one of the most terrific windstorms the county has ever experienced.

Business Plans Due To Hinge On Consumer

Public's Cash Tagged By Most Economists As Key to Future

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—When the chips are down in the business game—as they are at this uncertain moment—what do company presidents look for first as a guide to future planning?

The amount of consumer income available for spending—according to a survey of executives by the American Management Assn.

Forecasting is a growing concern in industrial circles—and perhaps one reason that businessmen seem so much more vocal these days on economic trends, near and long distant, than they were before the war. It's getting hard to find one who won't read the tea leaves at any business luncheon.

In the biggest corporations forecasting now is a full time job for one or more trained economists. In many large and medium sized companies, and a number of small ones, economic soothsaying is a regular part time job for some official.

Most of this forecasting as a business method within the companies themselves has developed since World War II. Its closing months found so much perplexity about what would happen to business come peace that corporations began trying to find out for themselves rather than trying to evaluate conflicting outside guesses.

Increasingly, too, business planning has become a long range item. Expansion programs are laid over a sizable span of years. Raw material reserves are sought to match guesses of future product demand. Research, product design, sales programs increasingly are aimed at the horizon as well as the foreground.

Careful and continuing forecasts become basis for decisions on construction, mergers, buying other companies, diversifying, ordering replacements of equipment or additional machinery.

Economic trend divining molds corporate budgets, schedules production, programs financing moves, sets inventory levels. The forecaster is consulted before finally deciding on market expansion, product design, hiring policy and investments.

To find out how they forecast business, the American Management Assn. surveyed 56 company presidents, mostly of small or medium sized concerns, and made a more intensive study of the activities in 31 additional firms, mostly with 10,000 or more employees and annual sales topping 100 million dollars.

Most of the 87—whether their products are consumer goods, industrial goods, or services—say they pay most attention to consumer buying power, since the consumer is their final judge. Next they watch trends in purchases, sales and production in their own industry.

Consumer buying itself is determined by some sub-indicators. Chief factor: wages and salaries—and here the length of the work week, the totals of employment and joblessness and wage scale trends are watched. Other factors: dividends, rents, interest, the price of farm products, and, increasingly, industrial pensions and social security. Shifts in saving habits are studied closely.

Population trends, both national and regional, are charted by many firms. Many industrial goods manufacturers report their forecasters also study the business prospects of companies that buy from them.

Postmen's Feet Get a Break As Mail Rolls Along in Carts

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

WASHINGTON — The mailman's feet are getting a break at last, and the trend throughout the country to suburban living deserves much of the credit.

Post Office department officials here reveal that recent experiments in expediting the mail from the local post office to private mail boxes have been so successful that more motorized and non-motorized devices are on the way to speed mail carriers along.

When the program is completed it is expected that the public will get better mail service; economies will be affected for the government and the taxpayers, and the work of the carriers will be less burdensome so that the old joke of the "postman's holiday" being a hike no longer will be ironic enough to evoke a chuckle.

Most novel and promising of the powered vehicles is the one-fourth ton, three-wheel and four-wheel lightweight covered vehicles. An elaboration on the motor scooter, 30" have been tried out successfully in test location and have made such a hit that 1,500 are on order. Several special designs for areas with rough terrain and weather conditions are being developed.

BORROWING an idea from the milkman, the Post Office department has placed in service more than three thousand three-quarter ton, sit-or-stand trucks with right-hand drive.

These are vehicles which finally ousted the trusty old horse from milk routes, because deliverymen can jump in and out of them with little difficulty while the truck idles quietly at the curbs between short trips. These also are obvious advantages for mail delivery.

tems for a long time, and will be put to maximum use throughout the U. S. Already there are more than 3,000 "bike" routes.

For the carrier who still must keep his feet on the ground most of the time, the burden is being lightened by hand carts, both the container type and the satchel-carrying type.

The latter are ingenious adaptations of the golf bag "caddy," and about 500 now are in use, with several thousand more being purchased. Patrons along some of the routes have gone together and bought carts for their mailmen, sometimes making quite a ceremony of the presentation.

DEPARTMENT officials stress that the mailman is not going "soft" by any means, pointing out that "the unprecedented movement of population to suburban communities has necessitated major changes in mail delivery methods."

Formerly, with closer concentration within city limits, it was comparatively easy to provide delivery service by foot carriers totting the mail on their backs. Also, their routes usually began at convenient distances from the post office or postal station; or if not, facilities were adequate to transport them back and forth.

Moreover, there is far more mail to carry now than ever before. The number of pieces handled by the whole system has more than doubled since 1940, and besides, people are writing more letters than ever, the year-by-year increase being materially greater than the growth of population.

The mailman still rings twice.

and his code of getting the mail through no matter what, remains the same; however, the Post Office department has discovered the wheel in a big way, and the service that uses the extinct Pony Express for a trade mark now goes rolling along toward a whole new set of traditions.

For the carrier who still must keep his feet on the ground most of the time, the burden is being lightened by hand carts, both the container type and the satchel-carrying type.

The latter are an ingenious adaptation of the golf bag "caddy," and about 500 now are in use, with several thousand more being purchased. Patrons along some of the routes have gone together and bought carts for their mailmen, sometimes making quite a ceremony of the presentation.

DEPARTMENT officials stress that the mailman is not going "soft" by any means, pointing out that "the unprecedented movement of population to suburban communities has necessitated major changes in mail delivery methods."

Formerly, with closer concentration within city limits, it was comparatively easy to provide delivery service by foot carriers totting the mail on their backs. Also, their routes usually began at convenient distances from the post office or postal station; or if not, facilities were adequate to transport them back and forth.

Moreover, there is far more mail to carry now than ever before. The number of pieces handled by the whole system has more than doubled since 1940, and besides, people are writing more letters than ever, the year-by-year increase being materially greater than the growth of population.

The mailman still rings twice, Dr. Craig, a native of Washington C. H. and a graduate of the high school here, revealed in letters to his brothers here, Harold Craig and Robert A. Craig, that he and Dr. Walters expect to be reassigned to active duty as naval reserve rear admirals.

Dr. Craig also said in his letter that Mrs. Craig, the former Miss Jean Fitzgerald of Washington C. H., would not accompany him because he would be in uniform and under orders.

The four Mayo Clinic staff members are to fly to Japan from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and back in the plane of the secretary of the navy.

They will be among specialists visiting naval hospitals in Japan, the Marianas and Guam and the army's Tipler general hospital in Honolulu.

Delight of mailmen is this all-weather, three-wheel scooter. Some 1,500 now are on order.

tems for a long time, and will be put to maximum use throughout the U. S. Already there are more than 3,000 "bike" routes.

Highland County Appraisal Slated

HILLSBORO — A contract to appraise all real estate in Highland County has been awarded to the L. E. Thomas Co. of Cleveland on its bid of $55,200, Auditor Clayton Cockerill has announced.

The appraisal is expected to get under way in the near future. The contract calls for completion by June 1, 1958.

County officials favored the use of local appraisers, but the state Board of Tax Appeals insisted on The appraisal is expected to get with the Cleveland firm has been approved by the state board.

Lima City Editor Going to Willys

Only 9 1956 Teams Still In Cage Play

Flock of New Faces To Appear in State's Regional Tournaments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A flock of new faces will appear in Ohio's high school regional basketball tournaments next week.

With 15 Class AA and 13 Class A regional qualifiers to be named tonight, only nine of last year's 32 are still on deck.

Two unbeaten teams, both Class AA, were among the latest victims in the lose-and-out race to the state finals. Lakewood's 17-game winning streak was halted 63-62 by Elyria, which had been beaten five times. Jackson of Stark County was stopped at 19 wins when defeated 71-60 by thrice-defeated Canton Lincoln.

Anthony Wayne and Tiffin Columbian, northwestern Ohio powers, were ushered to the sidelines in Class AA after piling up 17-1 records. Anthony Wayne lost 60-56 to Delphos St. John, while Tiffin Columbian was a 61-58 victim of the Mansfield Tigers, who have dropped 13 in 21 starts.

Both defending champions see action tonight. Middletown's six-time Class AA champions go against Dayton Roosevelt's 1934 champions in the district finals at Dayton. Class A king Arcanum plays Bradford at Springfield for a regional berth.

Lockland Wayne's two - time Class A champions won their way to the Troy regional Friday night with a rousing 56-29 win over Greenhills at Cincinnati. Nelsonville and Newark St. Francis reached the Athens regional, each with a one-point victory.

Nelsonville posed out Buchtel 46-45 at Athens, and Newark St. Francis was a 66-65 victor over Pleasantville at Westerville.

Still left of last year's regional qualifiers in Class AA are Canton McKinley's always - threatening Bulldogs, Columbus North, Toledo Maconber, Middletown and Troy. In Class A the ones with a chance to repeat are Arcanum, Lockland Wayne, Willshire and New Boston.

Of the nine, Canton McKinley, Columbus North and Middletown reached the state tourney in Class AA, and Arcanum and Willshire made it in the smaller school division.

With the Class A field of 696 whittled to 29, and the 349 Class AA schools shaved to 31, the final Class AA Associated Press poll is holding up well. Of the top 10 in the final ratings seven are still firing, and two of the other three—Lakewood and Tiffin Columbian—went out Friday night.

Only three of the top 10 in Class A are still around—Vienna, unbeaten Reynoldsburg and Lockland Wayne.

Of Friday night's 31 games, six were decided by a single point, and 13 others by five or less.

Unknown Collects Nod Over Hart In Welter Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—From comparative unknown to clamor for a title shot in one brief night, that's the story of Walt Byars.

Unheard of outside of New England where he holds the regional welterweight title, Byars, a 25-year-old ex-Marine from the Roxbury section of Boston, today was asking for a crack at Carmen Basilio, boss of the 147-pounders. He's not going to get it right off, of course. But off his dazzling display in decisively outpointing highly regarded, hard-hitting Garnett (Sugar) Hart of Philadelphia Friday night, Byars is going to have a big say among the welterweights despite his 5-6 size.

Byars, a 5-1 underdog, boxed rings around Hart to win the unanimous decision.

Los Angeles Chief Sure of Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson says "We've got the Dodgers!"

He stepped off a plane Friday enthusiastic over the results of his mission to Vero Beach, Fla., where he conferred with Walter O'Malley, head of the Brooklyn baseball club.

"It's too late to get the Brooklyn team this year, but we'll have the Dodgers in 1958," Poulson said.

He declined to elaborate on what plans were made for finding the Brooklyn team a ballpark, saying only: "We feel we can provide a stadium for the Dodgers."

Boxing World All Abuzzing Over Court Rap at Big IBC

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing men the world over were buzzing today with speculation over "what happens next" in the case of the government versus the International Boxing Club. Nobody right now has any definite idea of what's going to happen.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan touched off the bombshell Friday by ruling the IBC was a monopoly and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in the promotion of world championship fights. The ruling was only on title fights and not on the weekly non-title bouts promoted on Wednesday and Friday nights by the IBC in coast-to-coast radio and television programs.

Just how this alleged monopoly will be broken up remains to be seen. Judge Ryan directed both the government and the IBC to submit proposed decrees within 30 days. Hearings then will be held before a final court order is handed down.

There were indications that if James D. Norris, president of the IBC, and his associates named in the civil suit, thought a final ruling by Ryan was too severe they would appeal to the Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court. This takes plenty of time.

Most observers felt the government might try to clip the IBC's empire this way: Force the IBC to relinquish some of the big arenas it controls: (Madison Square Garden in New York, Chicago Stadium, Detroit Olympia, etc.); Nullify the club's exclusive contracts with champion fighters and make it give up either the Wednesday or Friday night network show.

Ryan, in his 59-page opinion, decided that the IBC of New York, the IBC of Illinois, Madison Square Garden Corp. Norris, who is president of all three, and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, Norris' principal associate, were "a combination and conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade and commerce in the promotion of professional world championship boxing contests."

The IBC, on advice of counsel, confined its comment to one statement by Norris.

"The court's decision was, of course, a disappointment to me," he said. "All I can say at this time is I hope we will not be prevented from continuing to present Wednesday and Friday night fights which have proved such popular television and radio attractions."

St. Louis Assured Of Playoff Berth

NEW YORK (AP)—The playoff picture in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. was a little clearer today with the St. Louis Hawks definitely assured of a spot in the post season competition.

The Hawks clinched a playoff spot Friday night by defeating the last place Rochester Royals 100-92 in the first game of all-Western Division doubleheader at Fort Wayne. In the other game, the third place Minneapolis Lakers moved in on the second place Pistons with a 101 - 97 triumph. Each of the three leaders has three games remaining while only two face Rochester.

Theft Conviction Ignored by Brown

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul Brown said here Friday that Art Hunter, former Notre Dame football star, will get a chance to play with the Cleveland Browns despite a conviction of petty theft.

Hunter was placed on probation recently for stealing money in the Elks Club in Riverside, Calif., where he lives.

"The young fellow has made a mistake," Brown said. "I want to give him a chance."

Thomson, Wall Tie For Pensacola Lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia and Art Wall Jr., one-time Duke University basketball and golf star, held a two-stroke edge on the field today going into the semifinals of the $15,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Thomson, winner of the British Open the last three years, played a steady game and came up with his second straight 69 Friday for a six under par 138 total at the end of 36 holes.

The 33-year-old Wall, from Pecoco Manor, Pa., unleashed a hot putter for a four under par 68 to go with his opening day 70.

Copter Gasses Up

CAMPTON, Ky. (AP)—A pilot landed a helicopter on Main street, bought 20 gallons of gasoline, then nonchalantly whirled away. One of the two men in the craft said the plane needed the fuel to get to Lexington.

25 Here To Become Instructors To Teach others Use of Guns

Around 25 to 30 members of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. plan to go to the Central Ohio Anglers Assn. grounds north of London Sunday to take a course of instruction to become instructors in the proper way to handle a gun.

The course will be under the supervision of the National Rifle Assn.

David Dupla, the county's game protector, said the group will meet at the Bloomingburg School Sunday morning and leave for the anglers headquarters—and their school—at 9:30 o'clock.

Krupla, who took the course last year, said the "school" probably would last most of the day.

WITH A TRAINED staff of instructors, a spokes man for the Fish and Game Assn. here said the next step will be to set up a range and shooting grounds on the 63-acre tract along Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista the association has.

Tebbetts Stresses Conditioning only

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts doesn't want to win the Grapefruit League championship with his Cincinnati Redlegs. He only wants to whip his men into top shape.

"What's more important is that the veteran players get into the best condition and the kids get a fair shot at the jobs," he said.

Major Clubs Set To Open Exhibitions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The 16 major league clubs got down to serious business today when they all took the field for the opening of the exhibition Grapefruit League season.

Mickey Mantle, the triple crown winner of the New York Yankees last season, was scheduled to try it out for at least a few innings against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla. He is bothered by an ailing knee.

Card Manager Fred Hutchinson will test bonus baby Lindy McDaniel, probably for the middle three innings.

However, McDaniel wasn't the only rookie to get the onceover from his manager. All told, about 30 fledglings were down for three-inning stints.

Rookie Manager Jack Tighe of Detroit Tigers is sending the same lineup against the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota as he expects to use opening day. Jim Finigan, obtained from Kansas City, is the only newcomer. He will play third base.

At Tucson, Ariz., the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants begin their annual series. Cleveland's lineup will be composed strictly of rookies. The Giants will start first-stringers.

At Clearwater, Fla., Manager Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies planned to go with his best against the Pittsburgh Pirates with Richie Ashburn in his accustomed leadoff spot.

Manager Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies led the International League in hitting as a Buffalo outfielder with .340 in 1944.

Don Mueller of the New York Giants struck out only seven times in 453 official trips to the plate during 1956.

Blast Wrecks Plant

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—An explosion, which firemen blamed on an accumulation of gas, shook a building at the Republic Steel Corp. plant here and started a fire that demolished the two-story frame building Friday night. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Boxing World All Abuzzing Over Court Rap at Big IBC

NEW YORK (AP)—Boxing men the world over were buzzing today with speculation over "what happens next" in the case of the government versus the International Boxing Club. Nobody right now has any definite idea of what's going to happen.

Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan touched off the bombshell Friday by ruling the IBC was a monopoly and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in the promotion of world championship fights. The ruling was only on title fights and not on the weekly non-title bouts promoted on Wednesday and Friday nights by the IBC in coast-to-coast radio and television programs.

Just how this alleged monopoly will be broken up remains to be seen. Judge Ryan directed both the government and the IBC to submit proposed decrees within 30 days. Hearings then will be held before a final court order is handed down.

Czechs Halt Athletes in Marriage Try

PRAGUE (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist rulers have dealt romance a setback.

They ordered Harold Connolly, America's Olympic hammer throw champion, to leave the country by today without permission to marry and take with him his fiancée, Olga Fikotova, Czechoslovakia's Olympic discus champion.

Harold, who came here last week with high hopes of carrying the comely brunette off as his bride to America, announced disconsolately that he must take a plane back to Vienna.

Czech law requires state permission for a citizen to marry a foreigner.

Olga, 24-year-old medical student, tried to comfort Connolly, a 26-year-old Boston school teacher, although she was herself near tears. She promised they would both keep trying for the wedding license, which would be her ticket to America.

There were indications that if James D. Norris, president of the IBC, and his associates named in the civil suit, thought a final ruling by Ryan was too severe they would appeal to the Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court. This takes plenty of time.

Most observers felt the government might try to clip the IBC's empire this way: Force the IBC to relinquish some of the big arenas it controls: Madison Square Garden in New York, Chicago Stadium, Detroit Olympia, etc.; Nullify the club's exclusive contracts with champion fighters and make it give up either the Wednesday or Friday night network show.

Ryan, in his 59-page opinion, decided that the IBC of New York, the IBC of Illinois, Madison Square Garden Corp., Norris, who is president of all three, and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, Norris' principal associate, were "a combination and conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade and commerce in the promotion of professional world championship boxing contests."

The IBC, on advice of counsel, confined its comment to one statement by Norris.

"The court's decision was, of course, a disappointment to me," he said. "All I can say at this time is I hope we will not be prevented from continuing to present Wednesday and Friday night fights which have proved such popular television and radio attractions."

St. Louis Assured Of Playoff Berth

NEW YORK (AP)—The playoff picture in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. was a little clearer today with the St. Louis Hawks definitely assured of a spot in the post season competition.

The Hawks clinched a playoff spot Friday night by defeating the last place Rochester Royals 100-92 in the first game of all-Western Division doubleheader at Fort Wayne. In the other game, the third place Minneapolis Lakers moved in on the second place Pistons with a 101 - 97 triumph. Each of the three leaders has three games remaining while only two face Rochester.

Thomson, Wall Tie For Pensacola Lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Peter Thomson of Australia and Art Wall Jr., one-time Duke University basketball and golf star, held a two-stroke edge on the field today going into the semifinals of the $15,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Thomson, winner of the British Open the last three years, played a steady game and came up with his second straight 69 Friday for a six under par 138 total at the end of 36 holes.

The 33-year-old Wall, from Pocomo, Pa., unleashed a hot putter for a four under par 68 to go with his opening day 70.

Theft Conviction Ignored by Brown

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul Brown said here Friday that Art Hunter, former Notre Dame football star, will get a chance to play with the Cleveland Browns despite a conviction of petty theft.

Hunter was placed on probation recently for stealing money in the Elks Club in Riverside, Calif., where he lives.

"The young fellow has made a mistake," Brown said. "I want to give him a chance."

25 Here To Become Instructors To Teach others Use of Guns

Around 25 to 30 members of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. plan to go to the Central Ohio Anglers Assn. grounds north of London Sunday to take a course of instruction to become instructors in the proper way to handle a gun.

The course will be under the supervision of the National Rifle Assn.

David Drupla, the county's game protector, said the group will meet at the Bloomingburg School Sunday morning and leave for the anglers headquarters—and their school—at 9:30 o'clock.

Krupla, who took the course last year, said the "school" probably would last most of the day.

WITH A TRAINED staff of instructors, a spokes man for the Fish and Game Assn. here said the next step will be to set up a range and shooting grounds on the 63-acre tract along Rattlesnake Creek near Buena Vista the association has under lease from C. C. Kyle. The new log lodge there will provide an ideal headquarters for a shooting school for young people, it was pointed out.

When the shooting ground is laid out, Krupla said it would be complete with fences, gates, brush heaps and undergrowth—all the things that the hunter encounters in the field. "Jump-up" targets also will be set up to test the reflexes of young hunters, he said.

The shooting school is regarded as a safety measure as well as a means of teaching young people—and older ones, too—how to use firearms effectively and with safety.

Major Clubs Set To Open Exhibitions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 16 major league clubs got down to serious business today when they all took the field for the opening of the exhibition Grapefruit League season.

Mickey Mantle, the triple crown winner of the New York Yankees last season, was scheduled to try it out for at least a few innings against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla. He is bothered by an ailing knee.

Card Manager Fred Hutchinson will test bonus baby Lindy McDaniel, probably for the middle three innings.

However, McDaniel wasn't the only rookie to get the onceover from his manager. All told, about 30 fledglings were down for three-inning stints.

Rookie Manager Jack Tighe of Detroit Tigers is sending the same lineup against the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota as he expects to use opening day. Jim Finigan, obtained from Kansas City, is the only newcomer. He will play third base.

At Tucson, Ariz., the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants begin their annual series. Cleveland's lineup will be composed strictly of rookies. The Giants will start first-stringer.

At Clearwater, Fla., Manager Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies planned to go with his best against the Pittsburgh Pirates with Richie Ashburn in his accustomed leadoff spot.

Don Mueller of the New York Giants struck out only seven times in 453 official trips to the plate during 1956.

Lent and its significance in the life of the Freshman Y-Teen girls was the central thought in the program presented at the Freshman Y-Teen meeting held Thursday morning during the activity period.

Becky Robinson and Ann McDonald were in charge of the program, and Carol Hyer led the group in singing hymns including the Y-Teen Hymn. Ann Johnson accompanied at the piano.

During the business meeting, presided over by the president, Paulette Pennington, the club voted unanimously to buy a United Nations Flag and present it to the high school.

Two new members, Sharon Smith and Pat Benson, were introduced and welcomed in the club.

A PANEL DISCUSSION on scholarship was presented by the Senior High Student Council Monday morning.

Becky Johnson, secretary of the Council, led the pledge to the flag, and Doug Rider, vice president of the Council explained that the main purpose of the program was to promote scholarship at WHS.

Participating on the panel were Jack White, acting moderator; Robert Terhune, representing business; Chief Phillip Lee, representing the armed services; and Miss Erma Anderson, assistant dean of women at Ohio University, representing college. Tom Swaim, Ann Johnson and Nancy Reno introduced the speakers and asked them various questions about scholarship.

Mr. Terhune emphasized the importance of paying attention to details, to do more than is asked of you and to set a goal during high school.

Chief Lee expressed the importance of finishing high school and of choosing academic subjects. He said it is to the best advantage to finish high school at home rather than going into the armed services and finishing it because at home there are teachers and parents to help and in the service, the individual must go it alone.

Miss Anderson said that good scholarship and the development of good study habits are essential to the college bound students. Good scholarship in high school is of value to the student who plans to seek financial aid for college or one who plans to be employed on campus or one who likes to join extra-curricular activities.

Nancy Reno, Tom Swaim, Ann Johnson, Judy Johnson, Judy Cahall and Bill Crooks should be commended for the excellent job they did in presenting the interesting discussion.

WEBB ELLIS presided over the National Honor Society meeting held Wednesday morning.

Plans for the induction ceremonies to be held April 17 were discussed.

PHIL GROVER talked to all those interested in 4-H work at Washington High School Tuesday morning.

This week National 4-H Club Week, and Mr. Grover is interested in promoting 4-H club work at WHS.

'Attack' Planned On Panama Canal

WASHINGTON — The Air Force announced plans yesterday for its participation in a massive simulated assault on the Panama Canal next month.

The announcement said the joint services maneuvers, tagged Caribbean, would give the Tactical Air Command a chance to deploy "its latest concept of composite strike forces."

More than 10,000 Army and Marine troops, about 135 Air Force and Marine tactical and troop carrier aircraft, and 24 Navy ships will take part in the giant training exercise.

Gallipolis Council OKs Sewage Deal

GALLIPOLIS — City Council has passed an ordinance calling for insurance of $900,000 in first mortgage revenue bonds to finance a sewage disposal system.

The action appeared to end a long battle of the city with the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board over dumping of raw sewage into the Ohio River.

The move came less than a month after the Fourth District Court of Appeals upheld the state board in its actions against the city. The board had refused to renew the city's sewage discharge permit.

Tourist Trouble
CAIRO — "There is no tourism season this year because of the tripartite aggression against Egypt. All foreigners hesitate to visit the country because of present unstable conditions," declared Rashad Mora general manager of the Tourist Department.

9 Churches Participate In World Day of Prayer

World Day of Prayer services at the First Presbyterian Church here Friday afternoon were based on the theme from Romans 8:35, "Who Shall Separate Us?" Nine churches here participated in the observance.

The entire service was written by Mrs. Bela Vassidy of Lancaster, Pa., a native of Hungary, but now a United States citizen.

Mrs. Ormond Dewey opened the services by relating some of the experiences of Mrs. Vassidy before coming to this country.

Mrs. W. Neil Hand and Mrs. John Forsythe of the First Presbyterian Church gave the call to worship, after which Miss Naomi Terry of the Rogers AME Church sang "He's the Lily of the Valley."

The service of thanksgiving was led by Mrs. John Warnecke and Mrs. Naomi Reif of McNair Memorial Presbyterian Church and Mrs. B. T. Norris of the First Christian Church.

"PROMISE" was read by Mrs. Walter McLean, Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Mrs. Calvin Otey and Mrs. Ted Yoakum of the First Baptist Church.

The choir, composed of members of all churches, under the direction of Mrs. J. Rankin Paul, sang two anthems, "Seek Ye the Lord" and "God So Loved the World." Mrs. John P. Case played the organ accompaniment.

"Supplication" was read by Mrs. Robert James and Mrs. Norman D. Renn of Calvary Baptist Church.

Mrs. John Bath of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church was in charge of the offering. Mrs. Bath was assisted by the ushers, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. Mac Dews Jr., Mrs. Charles Sheridan, Mrs. Gilbert Crouse, Mrs. Richard Kelley, Mrs. Robert Hyer and Mrs. Robert Caplinger.

Mrs. William Shepherd of Grace Methodist Church conducted the responsive reading of "Intercession" and "Self Commitment."

The benediction was given by the Rev. W. Neil Hand.

Oregon Mayor Due To Take Test of 'Lies'

Senate Probers Seek Truth in Story $500 Bribe Paid Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mayor Terry D. Schunk of Portland, Ore., faced a lie detector test, possibly today, on his denial that he accepted a $500 bribe to call off a gambling raid.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel for the Senate committee probing alleged labor-industry racketeering, was trying to arrange the test.

Schrunk, a Democrat, swore Friday he never accepted the bribe. He agreed to undergo the lie detector test although he admitted he flunked a similar test on the same subject in Portland.

Half a dozen other witnesses have told the committee of the alleged bribe of Schrunk in 1955 while he was sheriff of Multnomah County (Portland).

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said it was apparent somebody had committed perjury. He said he was asking the Justice Department to investigate conflicts in testimony.

THE COMMITTEE is probing charges that high Teamsters Union officials combined with Portland racketeers and public officials to try to take over the city's vice profits.

The sessions are in recess until Tuesday.

Schrunk claimed testimony against him was a "frame" which he said was engineered by Portland gambler James B. Elkins. According to Elkins' testimony, Teamsters Union officials tried to "muscle in" and control Portland vice. He said he went along with them until he suspected they were about to dump him.

Elkins has said that two Seattle gamblers, Thomas Maloney and Joseph McLaughlin, were sent into Portland to take over and expand vice operations.

He said they were sent by Frank Brewster, Teamsters Union chief on the West Coast.

Maloney and McLaughlin were recalled as witnesses Friday and both again invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions on this score or on any connections with Brewster. They claimed their answers might incriminate them.

During Schrunk's testimony that he had tried, while sheriff, to clean out vice, Kennedy produced a list of 35 gambling or prostitution places, he said committee investigators had found were operating "wide open."

Schrunk said he doubted so many illegal joints were operating, but promised that if it was so he would close them.

In Portland, Police Chief William Hilbruner called the list "an unfair appraisal" of the situation. He said arrests have been made in some of the places listed. The chief said none of them is "operating under protection." He added that "we are checking these places constantly."

Social Security Hours Unchanged

Elmer H. Biedenholz, manager of the Social Security district office at Chillicothe, has announced that the Fayette County office, 211 E. Market, is now being serviced by the Chillicothe office.

Frank Sheehan of the Chillicothe office will be the service representative for Fayette County. He will be here every Wednesday, the same as the former representative had been.

It is announced, however, that any person in this county requiring some immediate Social Security information, or service, may obtain it by getting in contact with the Chillicothe office which will be open every day, Monday through Friday, from 8:55 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. It is located at 32 W. Main St.

Girl Scout Week To Be Observed

60 Girls Participate In Program Here Now

Observance of Girl Scout Week in Washington C. H. will start Sunday with each of the three troops attending a different church.

Each day of the week will be observed by one of the seven steps in Scouting:

Sunday — Church day;
Monday — Homemaking day;
Tuesday — Citizenship day;
Wednesday — Health and safety day;

Thursday — International friendship day;

Friday — Arts and crafts day;
Saturday — Out of doors day.

The Girl Scout birthday also will be observed on Tuesday.

There are now three active troops in the city, two of them at the intermediate level for girls of 11 years old through high school and one for Brownies, girls of the 7 through 11 year age bracket.

All told there are 60 girls participating in the Girl Scout program in the three troops here. Two more troops, both of Brownies, are now in the process of organization.

THE GIRL SCOUT program is now approaching the end of the fifth year here, although the organization did not become a member of the Trefoil Council, with headquarters in Columbus, until this year.

As a member of the Council, the Girl Scouts here now can look forward to going to Camp Ken-Jock-ety, north of Columbus, next summer. Arrangements also have been made for day camps on the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. preserve near Buena Vista.

Mrs. Charles Killinder is the leader of troop 31 and Mrs. David Calliman of troop 38. Both of these are intermediate troops. Mrs. Robert Dempsey is leader of Brownie troop 62.

While observance of Girl Scout Week here is not designed to shout about Girl Scouting, Mrs. Harry Butler, the public relations officer here, said; rather its purpose is to let the public know Girl Scouts are training to become future homemakers and better citizens and to express appreciation for the support given the program.

Man Cut, Bruised In Auto Collision

A Washington C. H. man was reported in good condition at Memorial Hospital Saturday morning after he was injured in an auto accident on Route 35 South about 5:45 p. m. Friday.

Taken to the hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises was Edward P. Campbell, 226 Chestnut St., whose auto collided with a car driven by Miss Joan Elice Lewis of Jackson.

Campbell apparently was attempting to turn into the Parks Filling Station on Route 35 when the two cars collided, Sheriff Orland Hays said.

The side of Campbell's auto and the front end of Miss Lewis' automobile were damaged.

The Tiwi tribesmen on Melville and Bathurst Islands off the north coast of Australia have no agriculture, no tools and no domestic animals except the dog, says the National Geographic Society.

Former Washington C. H. Man Teaches Deaf Youth To Talk

There is more to Paul Goodyear's job than teaching printing. Goodyear, who used to have a job printing shop in Washington C. H., is now an instructor in Howe Vocational High School in Akron.

Oen of his pupils, William Weigand, is deaf but he is one of the best in the school on the Linotype type-setting machine. He is so good other students stand by and watch him work. He is an A student in most of his other courses and is on the school's honor roll, Goodyear said.

But even more exciting to Young Weigand—Goodyear has taught him to talk. Being deaf, he also had been unable to talk. He had learned to read lips at Goodrich Junior High School, but had never learned the sign language used by many deaf persons.

Goodyear liked him so much, he made a vow to himself that he would teach him to talk.

For almost four years, the two have met during the lunch hour when Goodyear patiently instructed his student in speaking aloud. As a result, Weigand now speaks distinctly.

Decrease Reported In Fayette County Sales Tax Receipts

Ohio sales tax collections showed a 2.99 percent gain for the week ending Feb. 23, over the same week a year ago, and in Fayette County the collections were $5,869.01 as compared with $6,611.02 for the week in 1956.

Greene County also showed a decline for the week but five other counties in the area showed increases.

In Ohio collections were $3,270,708 or 2.99 percent, above the collections of $3,175,611 for the corresponding week ended February 25, 1956, State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy reported.

Including prepaid tax receipts, use tax and other collections, the cumulative grand total revenues for the current fiscal year which began last July 1 stood at $153,676,312 on Feb. 23, 1957.

This amount exceeded the overall revenues of $150,606,458 for the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year by $3,069,854, or 2.03 percent, Tracy said.

Girl Scout Week To Be Observed

60 Girls Participate In Program Here Now

Observance of Girl Scout Week in Washington C. H. will start Sunday with each of the three troops attending a different church.

Each day of the week will be observed by one of the seven steps in Scouting:

Sunday — Church day;
Monday — Homemaking day;
Tuesday — Citizenship day;
Wednesday — Health and safety day;

Thursday — International friendship day;

Friday — Arts and crafts day;
Saturday — Out of doors day.
The Girl Scout birthday also will be observed on Tuesday.

There are now three active troops in the city, two of them at the intermediate level for girls of 11 years old through high school and one for Brownies, girls of the 7 through 11 year age bracket. All told there are 60 girls participating in the Girl Scout program in the three troops here. Two more troops, both of Brownies, are now in the process of organization.

THE GIRL SCOUT program is now approaching the end of the fifth year here, although the organization did not become a member of the Trefoil Council, with headquarters in Columbus, until this year.

As a member of the Council, the Girl Scouts here now can look forward to going to Camp Ken-Jockey, north of Columbus, next summer. Arrangements also have been made for day camps on the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. preserve near Buena Vista.

Mrs. Charles Killinder is the leader of troop 31 and Mrs. David Callman of troop 38. Both of these are intermediate troops. Mrs. Robert Dempsey is leader of Brownie troop 62.

While observance of Girl Scout Week here is not designed to shout about Girl Scouting, Mrs. Harry Butler, the public relations officer here, said; rather its purpose is to let the public know Girl Scouts are training to become future homemakers and better citizens and to express appreciation for the support given the program.

Man Cut, Bruised In Auto Collision

A Washington C. H. man was reported in good condition at Memorial Hospital Saturday morning after he was injured in an auto accident on Route 35 South about 5:45 p. m. Friday.

Taken to the hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises was Edgar P. Campbell, 226 Chestnut St., whose auto collided with a car driven by Miss Joan Rice Lewis of Jackson.

Campbell apparently was attempting to turn into the Parks Filling Station on Route 35 when the two cars collided, Sheriff Orland Hays said.

The side of Campbell's auto and the front end of Miss Lewis' automobile were damaged.

The Tiwi tribesmen on Melville and Bathurst Islands off the north coast of Australia have no agriculture, no tools and no domestic animals except the dog, says the National Geographic Society.

Former Washington C. H. Man Teaches Deaf Youth To Talk

There is more to Paul Goodyear's job than teaching printing. Goodyear, who used to have a job printing shop in Washington C. H., is now an instructor in Hower Vocational High School in Akron.

One of his pupils, William Weigand, is deaf but he is one of the best in the school on the Linotype type-setting machine. He is so good other students stand by a student watch him work. He is an A student in most of his other courses and is on the school's honor roll, Goodyear said.

But even more exciting to Young Weigand—Goodyear has taught him to talk. Being deaf, he also had been unable to talk. He had learned to read lips at Goodrich Junior High School, but had never learned the sign language used by many deaf persons. Goodyear liked him so much, he made a vow to himself that he would teach him to talk.

For almost four years, the two have met during the lunch hour when Goodyear patiently instructed his student in speaking aloud. As a result, Weigand now speaks distinctly.

Decrease Reported In Fayette County Sales Tax Receipts

Ohio sales tax collections showed a 2.99 percent gain for the week ending Feb. 23, over the same week a year ago, and in Fayette County the collections were $5,869.01 as compared with $6,611.02 for the week in 1956.

Greene County also showed a decline for the week but five other counties in the area showed increases.

In Ohio collections were $3,270,708 or 2.99 per cent, above the collections of $3,175,611 for the corresponding week ended February 25, 1956, State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy reported.

Including prepaid tax receipts, use tax and other collections, the cumulative grand total revenues for the current fiscal year which began last July 1 stood at $153,676,312 on Feb. 23, 1957.

This amount exceeded the overall revenues of $150,606,458 for the corresponding period of the previous fiscal year by $3,069,854, or 2.03 per cent, Tracy said.
